Chancellor Comments On Faculty Evaluation

Student complaints about the quality of teaching at the state's universities are too widespread to be ignored, Chancellor Robert Mautz was quoted as saying in a recent issue of the Board of Regents publication, "Memo."

"Each of us in his capacity as administrator or faculty member is obligated to utilize our professional training and experience to meet legitimate objections," Mautz said of the complaints.

All students wishing to apply for financial aid for the academic year 1969-70 must do so by February 15, 1969. All students must make full application regardless of previous application or previous awards.

Application procedure requires that all applicants fill out the Florida State University financial aid application form. Those applicants whose parents claimed them for income tax or supported them for the previous academic year must have their parents fill out a College Scholarship Service's Parents' Confidential Statement and forward it to the appropriate office.

Those students who have not been claimed by their parents for income tax nor supported by their parents for the previous academic year may have their parents sign a notarized Parents' Release Statement. In addition the students themselves must then fill out a Student Confidential Financial Statement and forward it to the appropriate office of College Scholarship Service. All forms must be completed by February 15, 1969.

Bookstore Co-op Viewed By President's Committee

Two proposals on the operation of the Bookstore and the Union Store head up the agenda of a meeting of the Special Presidential Committee on Student Affairs today at 3:30 p.m.

One of the proposals, prepared by Ed Roeder, a sophomore majoring in sociology, or international affairs, calls for the forming of a corporation of faculty members and students which would operate the Bookstore and Union Store on a non-profit basis.

Under the second proposal, submitted by Don Strickland, director of business services, the present organizational status of the two facilities and the Interdepartmental Store (which provides supplies to the university departments) would be retained.

A LIASION

The Strickland proposal calls for the forming of a "structure," composed of faculty members and students, "to act as a liaison between the University Stores and its patrons." The "structure" would also recommend "purposes for which profits may be best used."

The proposals, along with a recommendation, will be submitted to the Special Presidential Committee by Dr. Homer Mottice, professor of accounting, who is chairman of the Financial Affairs Subcommittee. Roeder and Strickland presented their plans to the subcommittee on November 26.

STADIUM DEBTS

Roeder's proposal is accompanied by a 13 page statement contending, among other things, that the Bookstore has "consistently maintained top publishers' list prices and (has) used most of the profits for

Student Protests Security Guards

Edward Roeder, Sophomore majoring in international affairs and sociology speaking before the Student Services Committee yesterday afternoon, expressed hope that the committee would consider a resolution to prevent the hiring of private police officers to guard the bookstore.

The bookstore currently hires private guards during peak rush periods, such as during registration and the week that follows registration.

Roeder presented a statement by William Tanner Director of Campus Security, which stated that the presence of uniformed personnel is undesirable, as it reflects adversely on the students and the university.

Dr. Rockwell, a member of the committee, echoed Tanner's statement by citing complaints received from several students. These complaints condemned the bookstore guard for creating an atmosphere of mistrust.

Roeder stated three reasons given by the bookstore for the hiring of these guards: (1) to prevent shoplifting; (2) to protect the large amounts of money in the bookstore; and (3) to make students check their books.

The committee decided to investigate the matter more fully before making any decision or presenting a resolution.

In other committee action, the members of the committee reviewed a series of resolutions

Thousand Chemists Meet Here For Discussions, Dedication

A thousand chemists are expected at Florida State University for the Southeastern Regional Meeting of the American Chemical Society today through Saturday, Dec. 4-7.

Most of the sessions will be devoted to some 285 technical papers but on Friday afternoon, Dec. 6, there will be two talks on the general aspects of chemistry in relation to society.

Dr. Robert L. Hershey, a member of the board of directors and a former vice president of E.I. duPont de Nemours & Co. will speak on "Goals and Strategies of Industrial Research." Dr. Franklin A. Long, vice president and director of research at Cornell University (and a member of the President's Science Advisory Committee under three presidents and of the Harriman mission which negotiated the nuclear test ban treaty with Russia) will speak on "How Are We to Support our Programs in Science and Science Education?"

Their talks are on a program at 2 p.m. Friday in Westcott Auditorium but most sessions of the chemists will be in the University Union.

Following this program Florida State's new Chemistry Graduate Research and Teaching Building will be dedicated at 4:30 p.m. in a ceremony in which Dr. Karl Dittmer will be the speaker.

Dittmer was head of Florida State University's Chemistry Department during a period when it developed as one of the outstanding ones in the country.

Dr. Norman Hackerman, president of the University of Texas, will speak at a banquet Friday night in Tully Gymnasium on the subject "The Need for Critical Self Appraisal in the Physical Sciences."

Peach Bowl Trip

Want to go to the Peach Bowl?

The Games and Outdoor Committee of the Union Program Council is sponsoring a trip to the Peach Bowl in Atlanta on December 30. The trip covers two nights in Atlanta, including New Year's Eve, bus fare both ways, and the game tickets. The price for the trip is $45.

This fee includes double occupancy at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel in Atlanta, which is within walking distance of the stadium. If single occupancy is desired, it may be obtained for a $55 fee instead of the $45 one.

The bus is scheduled to leave Monday morning, December 30 at 8 a.m. from the University Union Swimming Pool parking lot. The scheduled departure time from Atlanta will be between 9 and 10 a.m. on Wednesday, January 1, 1969.

Tickets will go on sale Wednesday, December 4 at the University Union Ticket Office. The bus only holds 38, but others will be provided if there are enough people to fill them. The whole $45 fee must be paid at the time of ticket purchase. The deadline for obtaining tickets is the last day of finals, December 13.

Graduates Study Riot Control

Thirteen graduate students from Florida State University have just studied the armed forces' police procedures including riot control in a field trip which Dr. Vernon Fox, chairman of the Criminology and Corrections Program, hopes will become a regular part of the curriculum.

The students and three faculty members were flown in an Army plane to the Military Police School at Ft. Gordon, Augusta, Ga., a few days ago, and spent the day observing police methods this school passes on to all the military police forces of the armed forces over the world.

A highlight of the day, said Dr. Alexander Bassin, senior faculty member making the trip, was a command performance of the famous "Riotville Demonstration," normally given as part of a five-day civil disturbance orientation course for civilian and military police officials.

"The group viewed a mock city in which unrest and agitation resulted in mob action and outbreaks of lawlessness," he said. "Civilian police, supported by military police, utilized the latest methods of crowd and mob control to restore order to the city."

Col. Henry W. Gordon, commander of the school, briefed the students on the functions of military police at the city of the day-long inspection. These functions, he said, include maintaining discipline, law and order; crime prevention; criminal investigation; traffic control; physical security, holding prisoners of war and civilian internees; operation of a custody and correctional program for military prisoners; rear area protection; civil disturbance and disaster control; and operation of the school at Ft. Gordon which trains officers and enlisted personnel for worldwide deployment.

The group toured the criminal investigation laboratory, was briefed on criminal investigation methods, heard a discussion of drug and narcotic investigations and attended a demonstration of the military police human tracker dog program.

Rhodesian Ads Encourage New White Immigrants

SALISBURY, RHODESIA (AP) — Large advertisements announce "Know anyone living outside Rhodesia? Encourage them to settle here and win one of these great prizes!"

The prizes turn out to be a six-day family visit to a lakeside resort, a game park and the Victoria Falls. All are within Rhodesia, so no foreign currency will be needed. Second prize is a refrigerator and third a radio-phonograph.

The advertisement gives the reason for the immigration drive: "Rhodesia urgently needs skilled immigrants to stimulate the economy and employment and to bring capital and know-how into the country."

It is widely accepted that if the handful of whites are to survive in Rhodesia they must build up their numbers dramatically.

The last official estimate in June 1968 showed 237,000 whites and 4,410,000 Africans in numbers the Africans are racing ahead. Ten years ago there were 3,190,000 and 203,000 whites.

Prime Minister Ian Smith has often emphasized that the ruling whites are determined to maintain "Western civilization." He recently reaffirmed there will be no African rule in his lifetime.

Britain is the main target of the immigration drive. Rhodesia faces severe competition. South Africa, Australia and New Zealand are also wooing English-speaking immigrants and offer them a perhaps more trouble-free future.

OPINION

The National Commission on Violence's report on the Chicago bloodletting during the Democratic National Convention has reopened an ugly, detestable wound which may not heal completely.

None of the major participants in the rioting — police, demonstrators, journalists — were spared the criticism of the special 90-member Walker Committee which studied the events surrounding the brutal confrontations in the Windy City last August, except perhaps the National Guard.

The report says the Chicago police were continually goaded by "the vilest conceivable language" and barrages of rocks, bottles and human excrement during the five days of intermittent clashes with the anti-war demonstrators.

But the reaction of Chicago police — wild club swinging, cries of hatred and violence, discretionary beatings wholly out of proportion to the original acts of instigation — led to the committee's conclusion that a significant number of policemen "committed violent acts far in excess of the requisite force for crowd dispersal or arrest."

Enough testimony was taken to lead the Walker Committee to conclude that "newsmen and photographers were singled out for assault." Many were injured and their property was deliberately destroyed.

But even the press did not escape criticism as it was blamed for staging some events and reporting them as facts. Based upon the committee's findings, a separate study by Sigma Delta Chi, the national professional journalistic society, should be undertaken with a view toward finding out the extent of this fraudulent newsreporting and take appropriate action in the form of reprimand or public recommendations to avoid similar staged news reporting in the future.

One searches far and wide to find the appropriate adjectives to describe what happened in Chicago during the convention.

To call it a disgusting spectacle or a national disgrace would be an understatement.

Committees such as the one which prepared this report serve the purpose of laying blame on one or several individuals and/or groups — they do not address themselves to the difficult task of seeking and recommending solutions to the problems which bring about such violence and bloodshed in the streets or our nation.

At a time when emotions run high and, in the words of Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Director J. Edgar Hoover, justice becomes incidental to law and order, it is incumbent upon each one of us to search introspectively and ask how the Chicago massacre could have been avoided.

Sen. George McGovern, during his visit here recently, said the solutions to our problems must, in the last analysis, come from us. We must make America what we want it to be, but violence must not take the place of reason and hard work.

We can lay blame and find fault from now until hell freezes over, but, as the report emphasized, "...the physical confrontations in Chicago will be repeated elsewhere until we learn to deal with the dilemma they represent."

This is the challenge all Americans face. How we meet the challenge will determine whether this nation, founded in war but nurtured and reserved by peace, will prevail.

FORCES OF ANGIOPHOBIA

To the Editor:

It is unfortunate that the playing of the Star Spangled Banner has been associated with the forces of Angiophobia (hatred of England). But the fact remains that for many citizens of the United States the song has become symbolic of an old resentment against "no taxation without representation."

The problems which face our nation today require a foreign policy of vision not nostalgia, of reconciliation, not discord (Joan Baez noted patriot — says it is even hard to sing), of exonerating persuasion not willful insistence.

I certainly do not believe that a majority of FSU students expend much emotion hearing Great Britain but in the interest of international good will let us go the extra mile that the global unity requires. Prior to the singing of the National Anthem I suggest the public address announcer admonish the crowd that "this song is in no way intended to offend persons of Anglo-Saxon origin, or to revive the bitterness of Bunker Hill."

Jack Wright, Jr.

GRADE COMPETITION

To the Editor:

There have been a number of letters printed in the Flambeau concerning the quality of education and the attitudes of students in seeking grades, knowledge, personal satisfactions through social relationships, all three or various mixtures thereof. I would like to briefly touch upon the issue of "competition for grades."

A person of intellectual integrity is not in competition with anyone for grades. He seeks the betterment of self through the acquisition of knowledge. He is not dependent upon the success or failure of others for the evaluation of his own character.

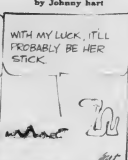

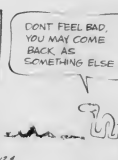

As to the alleged competition of the business world entering into the sphere of academia, here is an appropriate statement from one of America's greatest industrialists and financiers, Pierpont Morgan, taken from his trial concerning matters of antitrust:

"I have been in business for a great many years in New York and I do not compete for any deposits. I do not care whether they ever come. They come."

Nevertheless, there are those who do compete for grades. These are the "aggressive social climbers." They measure their success or failure in relation to their attainment of better grades or a more prestigious position over others. Without these "others" to give them their sense of self-esteem, they are lost.

"The absence of a self is the cause."

B. C.

of such behavior known as "competition for grades." It is also the cause of the mounting cries of alienation; the feeling that I am alone in a world I never made. In order to grasp their identity and recover their self-esteem, these people need to discover the meaning and nature of the word I; then they can remake the world in the image of their values.

LETTERS POLICY

Florida State University's Flambeau encourages letters of contemporary interest to the campus community.

Letters to the editor must be typed and signed, including address and student number. The author's name may be withheld upon request, although the editor reserves the right to publish all names.

Letters from non-students must include the author's address.

The editor reserves the right to edit letters in excess of 200 words in accordance with space availability. Letters of a vindictive, obscene or libelous nature will not be published.

CHEERLEADERS

To the Editor:

The Homecoming game has finally moved me to write and voice my gripe with the cheerleaders. First of all, I found it distasteful and unworthy of a student leader such as the head cheerleader to use the Lord's name in vain in front of 33,000 spectators and in a school choir no less.

Also the quality of the cheers is not at all what it should be. "Knock'em upside the head" and "Kick it to'em" is unbecoming and juvenile for a university's purposes. Something should be done to upgrade and improve the cheers of a university the caliber of FSU. There is no excuse for such neglect.

Nancy Cushman

DARK THOUGHTS

To the Editor:

Once in a while even us short-haired students look at the university around us and think dark thoughts. I feel that someone should put these thoughts on paper between the paradise of homecoming and the hell of exams.

The first point that came to mind is the case of the missing $100,000. I am speaking of the $100,000 in proceeds from the Peach Bowl that will soon pour into the coffers of the athletic department. This money will go missing at budget request time next year. The reason for student activity fees money will certainly not be reduced. It certainly leaves one to wonder where the money goes. However, after four years of attendance at our great institution I realize that it is tied in to the basic philosophy of the athletic department. (What we collect in money is ours and what you collect is negotiable.)

The second dark thought is the plight of the campus squirrels. For years these hardy creatures have survived the Christmas rifle attacks of the grounds department. This year, however, I think the creature "cravis pecanis" had done then in (Cravis pecanis is the pecan-eating beast seen assaulting the pecan trees on campus a few weeks ago.) I saw one prediction because I saw one poor campus squirrel yesterday and he already looked on the verge of starvation and the winter is still young.

In closing letters to the editor one usually states a point but I feel that this letter is like the Ombudsman's record-aphone, a good idea, but of little use and soon forgotten, so I will not make a point.

Smoke Signals Plans Morality Poll

Smoke Signals editor Hugh Turley announced plans Monday for a student opinion poll concerning the moral climate on campus. Questionnaires will be distributed this week in dorms and in fraternity and sorority houses.

Students are requested to fill out the questionnaires and deposit them either in the campus mail slot or in one of the specially marked boxes in their dorms and in the Student Union. Names should not be included on the questionnaires.

"We want students to be completely honest with themselves and with us," Turley said. "Since their identities will not be known they should be able to give fairly objective responses."

The questionnaires are not long and should require no more than ten minutes of the students' time to complete.

The Smoke Signals staff is hoping to get as many of the questionnaires completed and returned as possible. Responses will be evaluated in an attempt to arrive at some general picture of the mores of FSU students.

Results will be published in the second issue of the Smoke Signals.

Annual Vespers Planned By Women's Glee Club

The Women's Glee Club of the Florida State University will present its annual Christmas Vespers at 5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 8, in Westcott Auditorium. A University tradition during the holiday season, the Vespers program is free and open to the public.

Following the invocation by the Rev. Richard Ackenhueisen, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, the 90-voice glee club, directed by Miss Betty Jane Grimm, will relate the traditional Christmas story through the reading of the scriptures and musical selections. Assistant director of the group is James Marxen, a graduate student in the school of music.

Elaine Wellhoner, Ocala, and Duane Plush, Mobile, Ala., are accompanists.

Music to be presented ranges from 16th to 20th century compositions, including two selections by Dr. John Boda, professor of composition at Florida State.

The Vespers is divided into four segments: "The Prophecy," "The Coming of Christ," "In Praise of His Coming," and "His Ministry Foretold."

The first group, Nicola Porpora's "Magnificat," features soloists Susan McCall Jones of Tallahassee, Nancy Kuharsky of Grovetland and Linda Webb of Tampa.

The second group includes a 16th century French Carol featuring Larry Antway, flutist, and Norman Dello Joio's "The Holy Infant's Lullabye," with soloist Peggy York of Maitland.

Geology Opens New Resource Analysis Center

The Florida Resource Analysis Center has been reactivated in the Department of Geography at Florida State University.

Dr. William R. Brueckheimer, chairman of the department, said the center, in the Bellamy Building, will be under the direction of Dr. Edward A. Fernald, assistant professor of geography.

The Center will function as a data bank for inventorying Florida resources such as land and land use, water, forests, beaches, soils, population, and recreation. The Center will also serve as a laboratory for the analysis of this data.

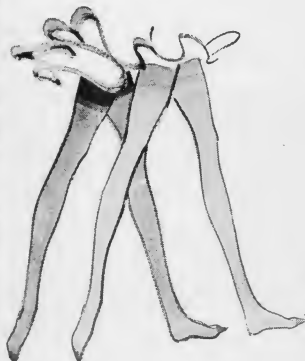

Both academic and practical goals will be met through studies aimed at better understanding of and wiser use of Florida's resources. A long-range objective is the development of a landuse map for the entire state, Fernald said.

An additional function of the Center is to involve students in the study of Florida's resources and to train persons for work in the various levels of government that work with resource-use problems.

The third group consists of three traditional Christmas carols, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Angels From the Realms of Glory," and "The First Noel." The program will close with Tchernepin's "Mass."

Opera Guild Presents 'Hansel And Gretel'

The FSU School of Music Opera Guild will present "Hansel and Gretel" by Engelbert Humperdinck in Westcott Auditorium tonight, Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p.m. Special children's tickets will be available for this evening's performance at $50 each. Other performances will be $1.25 for children and $2.50 for adults. Tickets are available at the University Ticket Office and at the door of the performance.

Although a perennial favorite with youngsters, "Hansel and Gretel" is no mere children's opera.

"It is considered by opera historians to be one of the masterpieces of the repertoire", according to Richard Collins, director of the production, "and contains music of a sophistication to delight even the most advanced music connoisseur".

"The composer, Engelbert Humperdinck, a close friend and great admirer of Richard Wagner, has achieved in "Hansel and Gretel" a unique mixture of German folk melody and Wagnerian polyphony and orchestration", Collins continued.

"The work which was first performed in 1893 caught the public fancy to such a degree that it founded a whole new type of opera around the turn of the century, the fairy tale opera. These later works, however, never achieved the enduring popularity of "Hansel and Gretel" which today re-creates the classic example of the genre," he concluded.

Two all-student casts will appear for the opera. The Wednesday, Friday evening cast will include: Sally Lambert, Hansel, Jayne Middleton, Gretel, Lucy Dyal, Mother, Thomas Teague, Father, Cathy Alvarez, Sandman, Linda Gravis, Dew Fairy, Natika Lupkewicz, Witch.

The Thursday afternoon and Saturday evening cast will include: Constance Adorno, Hansel, Melody Read, Gretel, Sandra Furnen, Mother, Edwin Ayers, Father, Carol Amy Boyles, Sandman, Monnie Hamilton, Dew Fairy, and Judy Smith, Witch with Carol Suhr as understudy for the part.

John Boda, musical director, will be conducting from the pit.

WALKING INTO THE WITCH'S LAIR

are Hansel and Gretel in the Florida State Opera Guild's production of the classic opera. The witch, played by Judy Smith, Gretel, played by Melody Read, and Hansel, played by Constance Adorno will be featured tonight, and Friday and Saturday nights at 8:15 p.m. in Westcott.

Library Receives Science Fiction Works

A collection of early science fiction valued at around $575 has been given to the undergraduate division of Florida State University's Strozier Library by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Wallace.

Wallace, a doctoral candidate in nuclear physics at Florida State, received the collection from his father, the late Dr. William V. Wallace of Orange, Tex. The books, paperbacks and periodicals, date from 1913.

A science fiction library has been set up in a temperature-controlled vault at Harvard, a special space fiction collection has been established in the Syracuse University library and Colgate University now offers a credit course in science fiction.

The Wallaces decided to give the collection to the library after an exhibit on science fiction in the undergraduate division last spring resulted in the circulation of every copy of this type literature in the collection, and waiting lists for some of the most popular works, including recent Russian science fiction.

One interesting item in the collection is "Islands of Space," the first novel of one of the most prolific of science fiction writers, John W. Campbell, produced in 1931 when he was an 18-year old student at MIT.

FSU Aid: $2.5 Million

For some 3000 students at Florida State University, the Office of Financial Aid is their helping hand for them to meet the rising costs of a college education.

The office is disbursing this year some $2.5 million to needy students in the form of scholarships, grants, loans and work-study programs.

Largest of the aid programs is the National Defense Education Act Student Loans, which made $650,000 available to graduate and undergraduate students. The long term loans bear a three per cent interest rate, and up to one-half of the principal can be retired by serving as a full-time school teacher.

Repayment of the loan commences after graduation.

About 90 per cent of the funds for NDEA loans come from federal funds, with the remainder from University budgets.

Private and University funds are contributing some $400,000 this year in scholarships to outstanding students. A 3.0 grade average is normally required for scholarship recipients.

Students from low income families who could not otherwise attend college are being provided $256,300 in federal funds under the Educational Opportunity Grant Program.

Chimps: Can They Communicate?

By ROY WERNER
Feature Editor

Possible two-way communication using hand movements, arm signals and postures may allow chimpanzees to express themselves to human beings. At least this is the track of current research.

Dr. Winthrop N. Kellogg, professor emeritus at Florida State was among the first to study the communicative abilities of the chimpanzees by bringing one home to live with his family. The result was an early book on the subject, "The Ape and the Child: A study of Environmental Influence on Early Behavior," published in 1933.

In a recent article in the October edition of Science, Kellogg summarizes the results of his and others experiments. Discussing the effects of having chimpanzees living with children:

"The infant chimp...reacts in many ways as a young child does. It adapts rapidly to the physical features of the environment, shows a strong attachment for its caretaker or experimental mother, passes a good many of the pre-school developmental tests designed for children, and imitates acts performed by adults.

"Up to the age of perhaps three years, its mental age is not far behind that of a child. At the same time, its skeletal and muscular development are much more rapid than those of a child."

Despite a high level of imitative behavior, said Kellogg, the chimps don't copy or imitate word sounds. The most anyone has ever coaxed out of a chimp, after long training, are the words "mama," "papa," "cup" and possibly "up" and these words "were sometimes confused and were used incorrectly."

Citing an example of the Kellogg family ape, Gua, Kellogg points out the apes have been found to use gestures to convey meaning. He related how Gua, conveyed a "help me" signal while trying to drink a coke which had been placed before the chimp on the floor.

"Although she could hold the bottle at the proper angle while drinking, she had not yet learned how to transport it from the floor to her mouth. Unsuccessful attempts consisted of licking or sucking at the opening of the bottle and of overturning it in the crude attempt to pick it up.

"Finally, after staring at the bottle and looking up at the experimenter, she took his hand in one of her own and drew it gently down to the base of the bottle.

Steere Represents U.S. In Masters Bowling

Florida State University senior Jerry Steere will try to continue the United States' winning streak when he represents this nation at the International Masters Bowling Championship currently being held in Guadalajara, Mexico. Dates of the tournament are December 2-5.

Steere, a Sarasota resident, reigns as national bowling champion among collegiate amateurs in competitions sponsored by the Association of College Unions International.

He will bowl against some 40 national bowling champions from such countries as Mexico, Italy, Germany and Great Britain.

The southpaw bowler has been practicing two to three hours a day at a local bowling land to prepare for the international competition sponsored by Pepsi-Cola and American Machine and Foundry companies.

Steere is a B-average student in personnel management at FSU's School of Business with an eye on a management career after a stint in either the U.S. Air Force or Navy. He's resisted the temptation of turning professional so far although he may enter local tournaments in the future.

Steere started bowling at 14 in junior leagues around Sarasota. In 1964 he won sixth place in the All-American Youth Bowl sponsored by the Tampa Tribune, and 16 other newspapers.

He bowled his highest three game series—with a score of 768—in his first year of adult competition. The score is still the record high for the bowling association in Sarasota.

After two years at Manatee Junior College, Steere came here in January, 1967, and entered the regional bowling tournament the following month. Winning in the regionals, he went to the national ACUI tournament in Miami Beach where he came in fifth place.

This last year he took top place in the regionals again and went on to the nationals where he was nudged out by a bowler from the University of Wisconsin. The champion went professional, however, and Steere was picked to represent the U.S. at Guadalajara.

astrophysics, for example, to pay the debt on Doak Campbell Stadium."

During the past 12 years, according to Roeder, the Bookstore has paid to debt services over 320 per cent of the funds which financed the facility's construction.

NO LONGER NEEDED

He then quotes George Fortin,

FSU Comptroller, as saying the Bookstore profits "are no longer needed for debt service. I would recommend discontinuing such transfers, especially since Bookstore contributions to date have exceeded the original cost of the entire Student Activities Building (University Union)."

Humble Oil Aids Education

Humble Oil and Refining Company and its subsidiaries will represent approximately $777,000 in educational aid during the 1968-69 school year, the company has announced.

Ninety five colleges and universities including Florida State University will share in grants totaling $293,000 from the Humble Oil Education Foundation, an offshoot of $30,000 and six schools over last year.

In addition, the company will make a substantial contribution to a second education foundation, through which other grants will be made to selected colleges and universities.

The Florida State grant of $4,000 has been earmarked, $1,500 for use by the School of Business Administration and $2,500 for use by the Geology Department.

Frosh Fail Two

the Miami-Dade Junior College

this past weekend the Florida State freshman basketball team proved they have the power to beat this season, defeating Palm Beach Junior College, 100-66, and Miami-Dade, 73-58.

In the Friday night contest versus Palm Beach JC, the pressing guard defense was led by Pat Fitzgerald, who put in 25 points for the Seminoles, his high school average per game.

Saturday saw the Tribe down highly routed Miami-Dade JC, ranked seventh in the nation among junior colleges last season. In the opening minutes, Miami-Dade had the edge but the Seminoles came from behind to register 39-31 at the half and registered 73-58 for the final tally.

Rowland Garrett led the scoring with 25 points and 23 rebounds, keeping in tradition with his exceptional jumping ability and outside shooting. Other outstanding performers were forwards Don Bowles and Ron Harris, both All-State high school men.

FSU 14 and 19 in Wire Polls; Cappleman A-P Southeast Back

(AP-UPI) Ohio State is the national collegiate football champion in the final poll of the season by United Press International, and Florida State is reckoned a final 14th by that wire service.

The Associated Press won't have its final poll until after the bowl games. This week the AP pegs the Seminoles, who finished 8-2 with a 40-20 skinning of Houston, five notches down the UPI list at 19th.

(It was written yesterday that the one writer from Florida designated to cast a weekly ballot in the AP poll forgot to vote on Sunday.)

On the UPI list Southern Cal dropped from No. 1 following its 21-21 tie with Notre Dame. Ohio State received 28 of a possible 34 first-place votes, amassing 334 points to the Trojans' 277.

Penn State came in third, followed by Georgia, Texas, Kansas, Tennessee, Notre Dame, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Purdue, Alabama, and Oregon State were ranked just ahead of Florida State in the second tier, followed by Michigan, SMU, Missouri, Ohio U., Minnesota, Houston and Stanford.

Ohio State solidified its hold on the top spot in the Associated Press' poll.

The Buckeyes, who wound up their regular season on a 9-0 note November 23, drew 34 of the 38 first place votes in amassing 770 points.

Southern Cal, the No. 1 team for six straight weeks before being displaced by Ohio State a week ago, had 631 points — only 13 more than No. 3 Penn State, 9-0 and Orange Bowl bound.

Because the race is so tight, the final AP poll of the season won't be released until after the January 1 bowl games.

Georgia, 8-0-2, which polished off arch-rival Georgia Tech 47-8 last weekend, remained fourth, while Texas, 8-1-1, advanced a notch to fifth after routing Texas A&M 35-14 Thanksgiving Day.

Ide Kansas, 9-1, slipped to sixth, while Notre Dame's tie with USC boosted the Irish, 7-2-1, up two spots to seventh.

Tennessee, 8-1-1, a 10-7 conqueror of stubborn Vanderbilt, was eight, down one spot; idle Arkansas, 9-1, dropped one place to ninth, and Oklahoma jumped from 11th to 10th on the strength of a 41-7 blasting of Oklahoma State.

ATLANTA, GA. (AP) — Before sending Florida State against mighty Houston last weekend, Coach Bill Peterson said pessimistically that "the game looks like a mismatch to me."

Quarterback Bill Cappleman took him at his word, and fired the Seminoles to a 25-0 halftime lead against the heavily favored Cougars who had scored 177 points in their two previous starts.

Cappleman hit 25 of 34 passes for 351 yards and four touchdowns and guided Florida State to a 40-20 upset at the finish.

The passing whiz was named Southeastern Back of the Week by the Associated Press for his performance, which helped push him out of the shadow of Ron Sellers, the Seminoles' famed pass catcher.

"Everybody knows Sellers is an All-American," said L.S. Coach Charley McClendon. "I'd like to add Cappleman to the list."

Pros Blacked-Out in Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — South Florida football fans — already resigned to sitting through a television blackout of the Super Bowl — learned today they won't even get to see Saturday's frosty preliminary between Green Bay and Baltimore.

A congressional body-block that prohibits pro football telecasts in cities within 75 miles of a college game intercepted the Packers and Colts game on CBS and the Houston Oilers Buffalo Bills game on NBC.

Saturday night's Orange Blossom Classic in the Orange Bowl, pitting Florida A&M against Alcorn A&M, put the crimp into the daytime pro games because of Public Law 87-331, according to program directors at the network affiliates in Miami.

The law prohibits broadcast of a pro game within 75 miles of a college game anytime on the same day. So Miami's Channel 4 and Channel 7 must revert to normal broadcasting Channel 10 in Miami, the ABC affiliate, will broadcast the game, college game of the week which is Syracuse at Penn State beginning at 11:45 a.m.

Bernie Rosen, sports director of Channel 4 WTVJ, the CBS affiliate, said, "We'd like to carry Green Bay-Baltimore but it's impossible; we've been told by CBS the game is not available for us to carry because of the Orange Blossom Classic."

"The Orange Blossom Classic people are concerned about it, as would graciously give us permission but our attorneys have said we can't air the game, permission or not," Rosen said. "The Orange Blossom people are concerned; fans might blame it all on them and stay away from the game in resentment."

Frosh Fall To Baby Gators

It wasn't much of a Thanksgiving for the FSU Baby Seminoles. In fact, the Tribe was baked into a turkey pie right there in Florida Field.

The Seminoles were stopped, beaten, awarped, and even scalped by the junior Gators 40-7.

The Gators fielded an awesome team rated by some as the best freshman football team in the South. They are led by 6-3, 204 pound quarterback John Reeves and by 6-0, 193 pound tailback Tommy Durrance.

Reeves and Durrance quickly and effectively took apart the FSU strong defense. They were protected by an outstanding offensive line averaging over 200 pounds, giving Reeves too much time to pass and opening enormous holes for Durrance.

The oft-troubled FSU offense was again static and sputtering. Cecil Kent was off his passing and the charging Gator defense gave him no time to find his few receivers. Mike Millard tried his luck but had no better success.

FSU flanker Brian Bengston, son of Green Bay Packer Coach Phil Bengston, caught the sole score for the Seminoles in the long, long game. The Tribe running game never got started as the Gator defense was just too overwhelming. The only open field tailback Paul Magalski and fullback Tony Chadwick saw was running onto the field before the game.

In other words, the difference between the Gator freshmen and the varsity is like night and day. The freshmen are good.

Sellers on Coaches All-America

Six players from southeastern states, including two each from Georgia and Tennessee, were named to the 1988 Kodak All-American Football team selected by the American Football Coaches Association.

The 79th annual squad will appear on "Kodak's All-American Team" at 8:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 6, on ABC-TV. Chris Schenkel and Bud Wilkinson, NCAA football commentators throughout the season, will talk with the players during the show.

Named from the Southeast are: Ron Sellers, end, Florida State; Charles Rosenfelder, guard, Tennessee; Ted Hendricks, defensive end, Miami; Bill Stanfill, defensive guard, Georgia; and Jake Scott and Jim Weatherford, defensive backs, Georgia and Tennessee.

Named to offensive backfield slots were seven players, all of whom gained berths on the team due to ties in the voting. They are: quarterbacks Bob Douglas of Kansas and Terry Hanratty of Notre Dame; halfbacks O.J. Simpson of Southern Cal, Leroy Keyes of Purdue and Chris Gilbert, Texas; fullback Paul Gipson, Houston, and specialist-end Jerry Levas, Southern Methodist.

Twenty-one schools are represented on the 1988 squad, which was chosen by more than 1,000 members of the AFCA based on players' performances throughout the past season which ended Saturday.

The 79th annual team is successor to the first All-America squad, chosen in 1899 by Coach Walter Camp of Yale. Players named to the squad are honored annually during a three-day visit to New York City, where they are hosted by the Eastman Kodak Company.

RON SELLERS

Offensively, these players were named: Ends—Ron Sellers, Florida State; Ted Kwalick, Penn State; Jim Seymour, Notre Dame; Tackles—Dave Foley, Ohio State; George Kunz, Notre Dame; Guards—Mike Montler, Colorado; Charles Rosenfelder, Tennessee; Center—John Didion, Oregon State; Quarterbacks—Bob Douglas, Kansas; Terry Hanratty, Notre Dame; Halfbacks—O.J. Simpson, Southern Cal; Leroy Keyes, Purdue; Chris Gilbert, Texas; Fullback—Paul Gipson, Houston; Specialist-end—Jerry Levas, Southern Methodist.

Houston Win Big Recruiting Aid

TALLAHASSEE, FLA. (AP) — Florida State Coach Bill Peterson said Tuesday that the 40-20 upset of Houston made Florida State one of the top teams in the nation and helped the Seminoles where they needed it most — in recruiting.

"For the first time the good athletes are certainly going to come to Florida State," Peterson said. "We are in fine shape because of our record and some downfalls of some of the other teams."

Peterson did not mention the disappointing 6-3-1 record of Florida nor the break-even Miami season. And he did not challenge Florida Coach Ray Graves' statement that the Gators were champions of Florida because they beat both Florida State and Miami.

"Naturally on statistics I have to agree he beat both Miami and Florida State," Peterson said. "But he didn't win the Southeastern Conference and we beat the team of the century."

Before the season started, Florida was considered a heavy favorite to win the conference title. Peterson's "team of the century" remark referred to Houston, which he has said is on a par with South'ern California or Ohio State.

The Seminole coach said many of the state's top athletes are leaning toward Florida State because of the "opportunity to play and our winning ways."

RON SCOGGINS, SPORTS EDITOR

This year's football picture in the state of Florida looked pretty bright at the beginning of the pigskin season. Everyone hailed this year as the "Year of the Gator."

Of course, everyone knows where the "Year of the Gator" ranks now, right up there with China's Great Leap Forward and the Harold Stassen for President drive, as one columnist put it.

The Hurricanes were destined to great heights again this season. Apparently they got air sick because they came down awful fast to a mediocre 5-5 season.

Florida State provided the only bright spot among the Sunshine State's three major colleges. With only a 9-3 give-away to Florida and a 40-22 no no to VPI, the Seminoles ended up on an 8-2 season and a bid to the first annual Peach Bowl.

In addition, the 'Noles upset, or rather downed, 10th-ranked Houston 40-20 with a brilliant display of offensive and defensive prowess reminiscent of Sitting Bull's massacre of Guster at the Little Big Horn.

One would think that the Tribesmen would get ample recognition for their football accomplishments. After all, the only other major independent to better FSU's 8-2 record was top-ranked Penn State, 9-0 at present.

Such is life when a well deserving team doesn't get the national recognition it deserves. Even a few of the bowl committees are feeling sorry for themselves after the Houston romp. I know that the Peach Bowl committee is sitting back and congratulating itself.

Probably the greatest mistake ever made in the history of All-America football polling was made by both the UPI and Look Magazine when they left Ron Sellers off their respective All-America teams last week.

Then again, why should they put him? He's only the nation's leading receiver in number of passes caught and yardage gained through the air this year. He's only the all-time leader in passing yardage during a career. And then again, many sports writers and columnists have been calling "Jingle Joints" the greatest receiver ever in the history of college football.

As one can easily see, Ron doesn't rate an All-America rating.

Naturally, it's easy to see that the UPI and Look teams rank as high as they ranked Sellers...second rate.

Student Peach Bowl tickets will go on sale tomorrow at the Athletic Ticket Office for $6.

The novice wrestling tournament has been postponed until next quarter.

Mr. Bill Cappelman and company marched from one end of the field to the other in a brilliant display of perfect execution in soundly trouncing a great Houston team 40-20 before some 40,000 unbelieving fans in Jacksonville Friday night.

From the start it was all Florida State as more records were broken and a lot of pocketbooks were too. Most of the credit has to be given to the offensive and defensive line play as they made the difference.

Cappelman had almost perfect protection throughout the game as he completed 25 out of 34 passes for 351 yards and one touchdown.

The defensive line stopped the Houston running game, notably the roll-out option play. Chuck Eason was the big factor in stopping the roll-out as he dumped Gipson a number of times for no gains. Coach Bill Peterson said this was Eason's best game as a Seminole. It was not only Eason's best game but the defense's best game as a unit.

Ron Sellers again proved that he is the greatest pass receiver in the nation as he caught 14 passes for 214 yards and one touchdown. Sellers now is the number one pass receiver in the nation in receptions and total yardage.

Florida State took the opening kickoff and marched 70 yards in Houston and it paid off as Houston fumbled again; this time Frank Vohun fell on it.

Cappelman took the Seminoles 47 yards in just five plays with Tom Bailey going over from the one to make it 25-0 at halftime.

eight plays with Cappelman firing to Phil Abrara covering 21 yards for the touchdown.

Then after an exchange of punts, the Seminoles marched 67 yards in 11 plays eating up time in a superb ball control drive. Guster scored from the one-yard line after Sellers caught a 31-yard pass from Cappelman.

Then after a fumble recovery by Steve Glides midway through the second quarter, Cappelman directed the Seminoles 54 yards in 14 plays taking almost eight minutes. Glass took a six-yard toss from Cappelman for the score.

The Seminoles' defensive line continued to put the pressure on Peterson had an idea before the game for the Seminoles to play in the unwashed jerseys the same ones they had dirtied against Wake Forest the week before.

"We wanted to let the people know," he said after the game, "that we were going to hit from the start."

Whether the dirty jerseys helped or not, Florida State started hitting from the beginning and kept on hitting.

The only bright spot for Houston came when their All-America halfback Paul Gipson, scored on a 55-yard run as he burst through the line and outraced the Seminole secondary.

Tribe Ruins Rebels 120-75

By SHEILA SNOW
Assistant Sports Editor

In the season opener versus Valdosta State, the Seminole varsity basketball club took the Rebels to the cleaners, 120-75, Monday at Tully Gym, posting the fourth highest scoring game in FSU history. Preceding the varsity contest, the Tribe freshmen dominated the Valdosta "B" team, 112-77.

The Tribe was ahead from the start behind the two years' experience of guard Jeff Hogan who put in 13 points in the first half, with Skip Young second high scorer with 11. Center Dave Cowens shared rebounding honors of six with Miami-Dade transfer Willie Williams.

At the second half were on, Florida State's depth held the established lead with Hogan and Young tying high scorer honors, racking up 21 points each. Cowens was third high scorer with 14 points and pulled down most the rebounds, 20. Substitutes Dale Klay and Ken Bush totaled 13 points apiece with Jan Gies, last year's third leading scorer, making six field goals.

Valdosta State's high man on the totem pole was John Jones who scored 24 tallies and led the rebounding with nine. The only other Rebel scorer in close range of his total was Pete Smith with 18 points.

Even though a little slowed by the flu epidemic, the varsity showed the guts and grits of a strong offensive as well as defensive game, connecting on 47.7 per cent of the field goals and 70 per cent of the free throws. The Tribe pulled down 71 rebounds as opposed to the Rebels' drop-in-the-bucket 33.

High scorer in the freshmen contest was Pat Fitzgerald with his traditional 25 points put in each game. Close behind was Ron Harris with 21 and also the rebound leader pulling down 19. The Rebels' Le Mahatze led their scoring with 20 total points and was tied for leading rebounder with Mike Phelps, each garnering 10.

A strong defense was exhibited by the freshmen bringing down 70 rebounds, close to the varsity tally, and completing 46.7 per cent from the field and 68.4 per cent from the line.

SKIP YOUNG

... shared high scorer honors with Jeff Hogan, each totaling 21 points.

Pres. Champion to Receive SPCSA Recommendations

By MIKE BANE
Staff Writer

Recommendations concerning all aspects of student life by the Special 77-man Presidential Committee-on-Student Affairs are expected to reach President John Champion's desk before the end of this quarter.

These recommendations were submitted to Dr. David F. Dickson of the Law School, chairman of the special committee, in a meeting of the committee yesterday afternoon.

COMMITTEE ROLE

Questions were raised by committee members as to the actual purpose of the committee, in particular, what approach should the committee take in making recommendations to President Champion? Members wanted to know if their recommendations should be calls for action in specific fields with suggested remedies or simply general statements pointing out the need for action and requesting the president to look into the specified area.

The issue was clarified by Chairman Dickson. Dickson said that members of the committee were charged with conducting the fullest possible investigation on university trouble spots in a limited period of time.

The committee members and associated subcommittees should then present specific and detailed recommendations for the approval of the entire committee. These recommendations should include plans for changing the offensive area.

BOOKSTORE

The committee also took up the problem of the bookstore and other Union stores. Two basic proposals were presented to the committee. The first, submitted by Don E. Strickland, director of business services, proposed to maintain the current "profit operation," but with the addition of a student-faculty advisory board. This would give students of FSU a greater chance to participate in the administration of the bookstore.

The second proposal was presented by Edward Roeder, a sophomore who has been conducting research on the bookstore problem for some time. Roeder suggested a cooperation be formed to own and operate the university store facilities at a non-profit basis.

ROEDER

Roeder charged the bookstore with being unresponsive to student wants and needs. Bookstore profits, instead of being channeled back into use for all students, are primarily used to support athletics and Union activities, said Roeder. Many students who work or live off-campus are unable to benefit from these bookstore funds.

"The primary purpose of university students today is to get an education, a degree, or both. To achieve any of these goals, we must pay for books and supplies. To tax students and supply to pay for non-essential luxuries such as Union or Student Activities, or football is unfair," said Roeder.

Roeder also objected to the use of armed, uniformed Tallahassee police in the bookstore during rush periods, which he said was detrimental to the image of the students and the university.

NO DECISION

The committee decided against any action on the two recommendations during this session. Instead, the motion was made and passed to have a full committee meeting the second week of the Winter Quarter to consider the two proposals. At the January meeting a decision will be reached on which plan to suggest to President Champion.

Two financial recommendations were adopted by the committee. The first required that the Financial Aid Committee and the Office of Financial Aid explore means of developing more realistic budgets and categories of financial aid.

The second recommendation called for student government to develop a simplified budget and accounting manual for student organizations to help simplify the financial organization of student groups.

FOOD PLAN

Several recommendations concerning the food plan were approved by the committee for presentation to President Champion. A recommendation was made calling for the establishment of banks of vending machines around the campus at convenient locations. It is hoped that these banks would help alleviate the lunchtime crowds around the Union.

The recommendation also called for investigation into a more flexible food plan than the one currently in use. The goal would be to set up a basic food plan, which, while offering fewer choices, would allow for greater quantities and lower prices.

Other recommendations concerning the food plan included a proposal advocating the hiring of a university sanitarian to take care of all problems arising in the area of sanitation, and a continuation of the Food Services Committee to act as a liaison between the student body and the director of the Food Services.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS

The committee also called for the off-campus distribution of the Flambeau to help facilitate community and university understanding. Also to further Tallahassee-FSU relations, a clearing house was suggested to establish relationships between Tallahassee citizens and students. It was also suggested that a program of tours to acquaint students with the points of interest in Tallahassee be established.

Senate Approves Bookstore Co-op Plans

Student Senate in an extended session yesterday passed a resolution advocating the transfer of the University Bookstore to a student-faculty co-operation.

Advocates of the resolution claimed that such a system would lower educational costs and especially aid students with financial difficulties, partially off-setting rising tuition costs.

According to the resolution, the store has been charging maximum list prices for all new books and the profits are used to pay off revenue deficiencies. Since all revenue debts for the bookstore facilities have been paid off, the profits have diverted to other uses.

Sen. Rock LeVelle and Sen. Gary Smith spoke in favor of the bill. LeVelle stated that more than 1,400 students have signed a petition supporting a co-op plan in the past two weeks. Smith cited repeated instances of high prices and low used book refunds as detrimental to the financial situation of students.

All members of the student advisory councils of departments, schools and the university will meet today at 4:30 p.m. in 126 Bellamy. For further information contact the Office of Academic Affairs of Student Government.

WEATHER

By H. MICHAEL MOGIL
FLAMBEAU Meteorologist

A large high pressure system continues to dominate our weather. Under clear skies nighttime readings can be expected in the 20's.

The forecast for Tallahassee and vicinity calls for fair skies, but cold temperatures, through Friday. Highs today 60-64. Lows tonight 22-27. High Friday expected 61-66.

"Students who face increasing tuition costs at state universities should not be exploited by a university bookstore, and it is exploitation. A student-faculty co-op would insure that the interests of the students would be more important than the profit motive," he explained.

"Faculty members who have had difficulties in ordering class materials would also have some influence on the workings of the bookstore, an improvement which I am sure many of them would appreciate," he added.

TEAM LAUDED

In other major action yesterday, Senate passed a resolution recognizing the Florida State football team as the Number One football team in the nation, despite the fact that "the week's football polls, UPI and AP, have ignored the fine performance of the team."

It also passed a resolution and a bill dealing with the approval of campus organizations. Under the new bill, guidelines have been established under which student organizations can be denied recognition only if they fail to meet several protective restrictions.

CONDITIONS

These conditions include stipulations that an organization may not have as a purpose the advocacy of the overthrow of the government by force or other unlawful means. Extramural affiliations must be secondary to university obligations. In meetings, only students and faculty members are allowed to vote in matters of official business.

The organization must also keep an up-to-date file of their constitution and any amendments, a list of officers and a means of contacting them, and agree to submit to periodic audits by student government if they receive funds from student activities fees.

Lack of compliance with such restrictions and guidelines "...will be the only reason for which Senate may censure or refuse to approve an organization."

Along with this bill was a special act which expedites the approval of organizations to avoid the long delays which have been common in the past.

QUALIFICATION CHANGE

A constitutional amendment to update requirements for holding student government offices was also approved. Under the present constitution, although the election date is set for late January, only students who have completed the second full quarter of their junior year would mean to be able to run. They would mean that only persons who are presently graduates seniors and would be eligible to run.

The constitutional amendment would probably have to be presented to the student body in a special referendum before the student body elections, explained Men's Vice President Wayne Rubins.

DEFEATED

Failing to pass at yesterday's session was a constitutional amendment changing the structure of the AWS Council to allow it to elect several officers and establish new positions.

Also killed was a bill to establish an executive organizations bureau to approve organizations in place of Senate.

Students intervening Winter Quarter who wish to receive copies of the Flambeau should sign up in 327 Union before December 6.

Administrative Policy may Pave Way for SDS Here

A clarification of the administrative policy governing approval of campus organizations may very well have paved the way for a Florida State chapter of Students for Democratic Society (SDS).

The policy statement, released Saturday by the Division of Student Affairs, stresses that student organizations must not "have a purpose, either in name or in fact, the advocacy of the overthrow of the government by force or other unlawful means, the disruption of university activities, nor the destruction of property."

Organizations with such avowed intentions would not receive approval from the administration. However, the policy also states that student groups which are affiliated with national organizations may exist at Florida State provided that local policies and procedures take precedence over those of the national group in case of conflict.

Violation of this principle would result in the disbanding of the student group on campus, the policy by Vice President John Arnold reads. The policy would conceivably allow SDS on campus as an approved organization.

The constitution of the group, submitted July 30 for consideration by Student Senate and approved by that body November 20, does not profess aims of a revolutionary nature. Its purpose, as stated in the pending constitution, is to further "educational dialogue on campus and stimulate 'thoughtful inquiry into all areas of student life and the larger society.'"

Further, if approved, the Florida State chapter of SDS would be an autonomous body even though affiliated with the national group. "Decisions and policies of national SDS are not binding on the local group except as adopted by vote of the local chapter," the constitution states. Presumably, there would be no tension between SDS and the administration unless National SDS policies were heeded over those of FSU.

SDS has fulfilled all statutory requirements for organizational approval and has been accorded "temporary approval" by Student Senate.

Vice President Arnold's statement also includes the admonition that actions of campus organizations must be decided upon by a vote of student and faculty members only, excluding any non-student members who may participate in the group.

"Student organizations must be related in a positive way to the educational objectives of the university, and the eligibility of recognized student organizations to continue on campus shall be reviewed if such groups appear to exist without strength and purpose or at variance with standards of justice and order," the policy states further.

Other organizations awaiting administrative approval include Foundation Counselors Assn.; Ganes and Gold Girls; Young Democrats; FSU Caving Club; Graduate School of Social Work; Phi Sigma Upsilon Society; Forensics Assn.; Afro-American Student Union; Handball Club; The Society of Sigma Xi; Les Bleu Berts; Young Republicans; Delta Tau Kappa and Brother Horizon Assn.

Official approval, which must be released by Vice President Arnold "might come tomorrow or maybe next week," he said.

There is no specific time limit for administrative consideration of the constitutions of campus organizations.

'Empire Builders'

By DORIS VIAN

"There is more than meets the eye," is a phrase that will become more and more evident to viewers of "Empire Builders" being produced by the University Theatre group in the Dodd Hall studio.

There will only be two performances of this play, tonight and tomorrow night at 8:15, completing the theater productions for the Fall Quarter before final exams.

One of the features that sets this play apart from other previous plays is the Schurz. What at first appears to be a bedraggled mummy at the opening curtain of "Empire Builders" takes on a new connotation as the play progresses, a more sinister apparition—or perhaps.

The play itself asks many questions which are left to the audience's discretion as to what or which is the most predominant. It will not be hard to figure out what that main theme is, it is not camouflaged from today's aware generation nor from what is jealously called "the establishment" — one could call it a universal play — it is worth seeing before exams.

Florida State students will go caroling at the home of President John E. Champion at 7 tonight, as he turns on the lights of the Christmas tree on the lawn of the president's home.

The caroling is being supervised by the two band brothers, Tau Beta Sigma and Kappa Kappa Psi.

Refreshments will be served inside the Champion home to the carolers.

FSU Reflects Widespread Organized Religion Disinterest

By ROY WERNER
Feature Editor

AT FSU

"Florida State reflects the general situation as great numbers of students, perhaps the majority, have little interest in institutionalized, organized religion," said Dr. Charles T. Wellborn, the university chaplain. However, Dr. Wellborn does find "widespread interest in religion, per se, among students who are seeking and examining" He said, "One indication of this is the steadily increasing, almost phenomenal, growth in religious studies."

"Students are seeking to understand religion and relate it to their own lives," said Wellborn.

It was only three years ago that FSU founded a department of religion. Now, that department enrolls almost a thousand students each quarter and has started a graduate program. Where four faculty comprised the full staff three years ago, today the religion faculty is comprised of 11 members.

Dr. Wellborn finds that there is a "phenomenal growth in all state universities in the area of religion as studied in an academic environment."

The primary religious emphasis on the FSU campus is found in the Religion and Life Lecture Series. According to Wellborn, "this is generally aimed at small interest groups." He noted that in that framework, "We get pretty good response."

Unlike many campus areas, Florida State no longer sponsors a Religious Emphasis Week. Such a program tends to stress "religion for a week," seeking to have one speaker per sect. Such a "roo approach" said Wellborn, gradually results in the end of the week-long activities.

Today, FSU "tends to concentrate on significant problems and to bring on competent speakers" to meet the campus needs, said Wellborn.

STAFF

The chaplain does not view organized religion as a static element. Rather, he would prefer to "Not yet make a judgment." Dr. Wellborn believes that it "remains to be seen if [organized religion] can meet the changes and needs of today's society. His 'own guess is that organized religion will not disappear but undergo vast changes.'"

The staff of the chaplain's office includes four graduate assistants besides one assistant chaplain. Dr. Wellborn finds his time, as well as the staff's, is split into three areas: counseling, program direction (lecture and film series, discussion groups, etc.) and help of the organized religious groups on campus.

Expressing his personal thoughts, Wellborn said, "I think the so-called 'religious atmosphere' on campus is very healthy as students look for and find clues and standards they can live by...an open-ended search."

FSU Library Friends Publishes Author's Speech Collection

A collection of speeches by Lois Lenski, author of fiction for young people, has just been published in book form by the Friends of the Florida State University Library. Titled "Adventure in Understanding," the volume is a compilation of speeches Miss Lenski has made over the past two decades to parents, teachers and librarians. The book is a result of a request by N. Orwin Rush, director of libraries at Florida State, who wrote the preface. He says:

Recently I asked Miss Lenski if she would get together a collection of her talks. This volume is a result of my inquiry and it brings together in book form many of her ideas concerning books and literature in general, young people, our world and particularly her own ideas on writing and the creation of books for children."

Each chapter begins with a Lenski poem, some of which appear for the first time. End papers and chapter decorations are original Lenski drawings.

In the Robert Manning Strozier Library at Florida State University, there is a special Lois Lenski collection of more than 400 first and foreign editions, manuscripts and notebooks of her drawings pertaining to this region

Dedication Highlights Chemistry Meetings

Dr. Karl Dittmer, former Florida State University chemistry chief, returns to campus Friday, December 6, to dedicate the University's $4.3 million Chemistry Graduate Instruction and Research Building, a project started while he was still here.

The dedication ceremony at 4 p.m. Friday is a highlight of the Southeastern Regional Meeting of the American Chemical Society, which has some 1,000 chemists here for a four day program.

Dr. Dittmer was head of Florida State's Chemistry Department during the period when it was developing into one of the nation's outstanding chemistry centers. He later served FSU as vice president for academic affairs and presently is dean of the Division of Sciences at Portland State College, Oregon.

Dr. Gregory R. Choppin, present chairman of the Chemistry Department, will respond to Dittmer's remarks.

Doyle Conner, commissioner of agriculture, will be on hand to present the building to Board of Regents member Dr. Louis C. Murray, of Orlando, and University President John E. Champion. Dr. Champion will preside at the ceremonies.

A reception and tour of the building will follow the dedication.

OPINION

President John Champion's 77-member committee began acting upon subcommittee recommendations after ironing out administrative kinks. The first issue which developed concerned the role of the committee and the several subcommittees as advisory bodies.

The conflict developed when Dr. Juanita Gibson, on behalf of the subcommittee on financial affairs offered as a recommendation that a matter be referred to President Champion's office for further recommendations.

The role of the subcommittees should be to refine and define the problem areas as best they can, and present concrete proposals to President Champion.

These subcommittees should not attempt to "pass the buck" because they are not able to digest complex information.

Committee Chairman Dr. David F. Dickson did the proper thing by referring the matter back to the subcommittee for further study after advising the group not to issue "recommendations for recommendations."

The most significant proposal offered concerned the status and operation of the University Bookstore. Ed Roeder, a sophomore majoring in sociology and international affairs, discussed his 15-page report outlining the inequities of the current financial operation of the bookstore.

After explaining the use of bookstore profits for the payment of outstanding debts and athletics, he offered a proposal for the establishment of a corporation which would own and operate the bookstore on a non-profit basis.

In this manner, students would be entitled to receive repayment on their books and pay a lesser sum for the purchase of their books.

The legal inequities pointed out by Roeder and outlined in detail in his report should be carefully scrutinized to make certain the law is complied with.

The proposal for a student-operated university-recognized co-op is the best recommendation heard thus far in achieving an equitable means of running the financial and administrative operations of the bookstore and the Flambeau joins with the student senate in endorsing this recommendation.

Another major proposal concerns the selection of a sanitarium to conduct frequent inspections of university facilities, more specifically the union cafeteria.

During the summer, a health department study revealed that Morrison's on-campus food service violated several health code provisions.

This recommendation, along with proposals calling for expansion of cafeteria facilities and increased flexibility regarding the food plan, were adopted and the Flambeau applauds the committee's action in this area.

The committee got off on the right foot, and will meet again during the second week in January to consider the bookstore proposal, campus security (putting armed lawmen in the university bookstore), increasing the students' voice in University Union management and recommendations from the academics and curriculum subcommittee.

The committee's work is just beginning, but the outlook is favorable.

Slimstik, the little worm who was put through the gauntlet in his cartoon series in the Flambeau this quarter, is transferring to another university. Well, to be specific, Paul Harding, Slimstik's creator, is transferring, but he's taking the little guy with him.

In his first and, as it has turned out, only quarter at FSU, Slimstik has made the rounds. In one cartoon, he posed as a campus policeman investigating an accident. A coed had "totaled" her car by smashing it into a tree. Slim had the gall to ask "What's the matter? Car won't start?"

In another setup, Slimstik was a nervous wreck walking down the street and sucking his thumb. He was all right, though. He just had kicked the smoking habit.

And at the height of his FSU career, Slim was transformed into the three major Presidential candidates. He played them in a cartoon on Halloween and then again in one on Election Day.

Then there was the fight between Slimstik and his roommate. It never was completed, which probably is a good thing since they both would have been losers. Slim was going at it with an ice pick. His boarding buddy was using a razor blade.

Paul Harding, a junior who transferred to FSU from Broward Junior College, dreamed up Slimstik

"SLIMSTIK"

during "A boring high school study hall in 1984."

"I was just doodling around and I ended up with this worm," Paul said. He called his new found friend Wormy. The Slimstik title wasn't added until Paul joined the Flambeau staff this quarter.

The original Slimstik had no arms. The arms were added about six months later, according to Paul, to showcase Slim's flexibility. "Before the arms, he'd be able to hang out and tail to the stuff."

What has Paul tried to do with Slimstik?

"Some cartoons were deliberately satirical," he commented. Others might be classified as amusing, not humorous, but amusing.

Paul hopes to develop Slimstik into a daily professional newspaper feature, either a strip or single cartoon. He thinks he might be able to break into the "big time" because of Slim's unique physical characteristics.

"The competition is tough, with many cartoons involving famous figures," he said.

Part human, part worm, Slimstik wouldn't get lost in a crowd of human figures, that's for sure. It seemed to fit right into a crowd of FSU human figures, though. Now Slim's leaving and it's sort of a shame.

SPEAK OUT

FINAL EXAMS

To the Editor

I propose that the proposed schedule of final examinations be revised/scrapped/corrected/a & b only/all of the following.

Even if we disregard the fact that the previously published last day of finals was to have been Thursday, December 12 (not Friday, December 13), the proposed schedule is one along the lines of the trimester exam schedule.

In the trimester system, not taking summer into consideration, we had finals twice, exams were two hours long, and the whole ordeal lasted five or so days. Last year under the quarter system, which necessitated having finals three times, exams were one and one-half hours long (do you suppose somebody didn't have enough time to distribute and collect all the IBM (junk?) and took four days. (And the hour was neither so unreasonably early or unreasonably late, and a conflict on Monday didn't keep you here until Friday night.)

Heaven knows the big "They" have changed streams on us enough times-and now they're trying to change horses, too.

HOMECOMING DESTRUCTION

To the Editor

I have never written a letter to the Flambeau before, because I have never felt the need to do before. However, something which occurred during Homecoming weekend has really appalled me. I live in an off-campus supervised house, and several girls in the house and I worked diligently last weekend (Nov. 23-24) making Homecoming decorations. Several nights we were up until 1:30 and 2 a.m. We wanted to make our decorations look good, and we gave up study time to do this.

When we finished the decorations, we put them up in front of the house and were very proud of them.

On Saturday morning when I walked outside, I noticed that something or someone had uprooted one of our figures out of the ground. Several parts of the figure had been torn, and it was badly out of shape. Sometime Saturday night the figures were completely "haunted off."

This really burned me up. How could anyone be so thoughtless, careless and destructive as to do a thing like this? The decorations were made with money which student government allots each dorm or off-campus house entering the contest. It takes time, energy, thought and patience to build these decorations.

I just wish that people who seem to get a thrill out of destroying other people's property would stop and think twice about getting their thrills. How would they like it if someone destroyed their property?

RUDE CONCERT AUDIENCE

To the Editor

On November 23 I was shocked and amazed to observe a phenomenon that, until this time, I had thought was only possible in my home city Miami, a city with the dubious distinction of having "the rudest audiences in the world." I stopped counting, after approximately the first two dozen couples, the number of people that actually got up and walked out in the middle of a performance. But there were many more to come.

Forgetting the discomfort the audience caused the majority of the audience who knew the appropriate conduct in a concert-show atmosphere. Even though these acts were the ultimate insult to the brilliant performer in stage.

Perhaps we can overlook one or two genuine emergencies. However, even if we assume that these people were not getting caught up in the extremely intimate performance audience relationship, this man was creating a very hard assumption to realize; even then, how could so many adult collegiate people be so rude?

Fortunately, the genius behind the mike and piano didn't even see them dropping off, not because he happened to be blind, but because he was looking right through them.

Regular Football Season Over, But Teams Must Prove Bowl Bids

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that the regular college football season is all but over, most of the top ranking teams, including Ohio State's No. 1 Buckeyes, will have to prove their worth once more in the bowl games.

Ohio State, 9-0, which finished its perfect season on November 23, was an overwhelming winner over unbeaten but once-tied Southern California, 9-0-1, in the last of the Associated Press' regular season polls, released Tuesday.

The Buckeyes received 34 of the 39 first place votes and 770 points. Southern Cal, tied 21-21 by Notre Dame late Saturday, got two first place votes and 631 points. The Trojans barely edged third place Penn State, 9-0. The Pennsylvanians received 618 points, just 13 behind the Trojans.

A week ago Ohio State had only a 10 point margin over Southern California, No. 1 team for six consecutive weeks until it was moved off the top rung by the Buckeyes.

With nine of the first 10 teams slated for Bowl action — seventh ranked Notre Dame is the only exception — the AP will take a poll after the New Year's games.

Penn State could have trouble defending its No. 3 ranking even before New Year's Day in Miami's Orange Bowl. The Lions close out their regular season Saturday against Syracuse, 6-3-0, a traditional and tough rival at University Park, Pa. The game will be telecast nationally. Starting time is 11:45 a.m., EST.

Ranked in order behind Penn State were: 4, Georgia, 8-0-2, 528; 5, Texas, 8-1-1, 399; 6, Kansas, 9-1, 285, and 10, Oklahoma, 7-3, 228.

Thus the four premier Bowl classics wound up with matchups of Top-Ten teams.

Cleveland, Phillies Gain Two

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Trading

activity broke out at the major league meetings Tuesday as Cleveland acquired shortstop Zoilo Versalles and Philadelphia obtained third baseman Deron Johnson, two players who were on top of the baseball world just three years ago.

Versalles, who won the most valuable player award in the American League for leading Minnesota to the pennant in 1965 was acquired by the Indians in delayed payment from the new San Diego club as part of an earlier deal with Cleveland.

The Indians also will have to deliver another player to the AL expansion club to complete the transaction.

Johnson, who was the National League runner-up in king for Cincinnati in 1965, was sold to the Phillies by Atlanta for an undisclosed amount of cash in the first of the two trades completed at these meetings.

In another trade, Boston sent pitcher Gary Wastewski to St. Louis for utility infielder Dick Schofield.

Playtex invents the first-day tampon

(We took the inside out to show you how different it is.)

Outside: it's softer and silky (not cardboardy). Inside: it's so extra absorbent... it even protects on your first day. Your worst day!

In every lab test against the old cardboardy kind... the Playtex tampon was always more absorbent. Actually 45% more absorbent on the average than the leading regular tampon.

Because it's different. Actually adjusts to you. It flows out. Fluffs out. Designed to protect every inside inch of you. So the chance of a mishap is almost zero!

Try it fast.

Vet Claims Dancer's Image Butchered Before Derby

By GEORGE W. HACKETT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The veterinarian who treated Dancer's Image before the Kentucky Derby said Tuesday that he was "the most butchered horse I ever saw, and probably the greatest horse I ever saw."

Dr. Alex Harthill made these comparisons in describing the condition of the colt to the Kentucky State Racing Commission.

Harthill said that Peter Fuller's horse, bothered by sore ankles before the race, was a doubtful starter as late as the morning of the Derby last May 4.

Harthill said that he had been treating the horse with azium, an analgesic, and shots of vitamin C and that he was showing progress earlier in the week.

He said the horse was in bad condition on the Thursday morning before the Derby and he recommended that Dancer's Image not be galloped that day.

Harthill said the assistant trainer told him that head trainer Lou Cavalaris was unreachable, that the schedule called for the horse to be galloped and that he was going to follow instructions.

"It's your horse," Harthill said he told the assistant. "You can do what you want with him."

Harthill, who was employed by Fuller to care for the horse, said he did not inform the Bostonian that the horse shouldn't have been galloped.

"My obligation was to the trainer," said Harthill.

Asked if he relayed such information to Cavalaris, he said he did not because by Derby eve the horse had improved again.

Fuller is appealing the decision by the Churchill Downs stewards who deprived him of first prize money. A chemist reported the colt's urinalysis showed traces of phenylbutazone, an illegal medication, in the post Derby examination.

Harthill said he had administered the drug on the Sunday before the race and that at no other time during the week that followed.

In his testimony, Harthill stated, "This was the most butchered horse I ever saw to take a horse and deliberately break him down just to win a race." He added "He is probably the greatest horse I ever saw to overcome the things he did to win the Derby."

Seven Trades in Majors

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Houston Astros traded third baseman Bob Aspromonte, the last of the players still remaining from their 1962 expansion draft, to the Atlanta Braves for utility man Bob Martinez in one of three trades completed today at the major league meetings.

The Astros also were involved in an interleague trade with the New York Yankees, acquiring relief pitcher Dooley Womack for outfielder Dick Simpson. The Yankees also completed another inter-league trade, sending outfielder Andy Kosco to the Los Angeles Dodgers for pitcher Mike Kekich.

There now have been seven trades involving 15 players made in the first three days of the meetings.

Aspromonte, 30, has a .299 lifetime batting average in 10 seasons

Films to Vietnam

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — When football coaches Woody Hayes and Bill Hess visited the troops in Vietnam last June, they promised that if either of their teams played in a bowl game they would return with the films.

As a result both plans to visit Vietnam next month.

"Hesst to girls those U.S. troops would rather talk about sports than anything else," Hess was quoted as saying in a column in Wednesday's Orlando Sentinel. His Ohio University team is 10-0 and meets Richmond in the Tangerine Bowl here December 27.

Hayes, whose top-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes also are 10-0, and Hess will leave for Vietnam Jan. 2, the day after Ohio State and Southern California play in the Rose Bowl.

The coaches will spend two weeks touring Vietnam and showing their bowl films.

Jets, Graham Receive Fines

NEW YORK (AP) — Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle, cracking down harshly on criticism of game officials, has hit the New York Jets and Coach Otto Graham of the Washington Redskins with heavy fines.

The Jets were penalized a reliably reported $2,000 while the reported amount Graham was fined varied from $1,000 to $2,500.

The commissioner is empowered to levy a fine as high as $5,000.

Graham was quoted as saying last Thursday after the Redskins lost to Dallas 29-20. "The officials stole the game from us."

As the "Year of the Gator" goes down in dust, Seminole supremacy reigns with Sellers, Cappleman and Company. But the thoughts of sports fans turn to the ever challenging game of basketball.

Even though the Gators have dropped the Tribe from their schedule, afraid of possible defeat disguised under a variety of feeble excuses, the Seminoles may get a chance to shut down Florida yet. As they say, "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" after the Gators thwarted the Tribe twice last season is the expression which comes to mind.

Friday night the roundballers will engage in the first round of the Jacksonville Citivan Classic versus Miami. If the Seminoles can get past the tough Hurricanes with 6-7, 6-8 and 6-9 starters, and the Gators down Jacksonville University, Saturday night is the set for revenge, sweet revenge.

The season opener versus Valdosta State when the Tribe racked up 120 points versus the Rebels gives an indication of the fine potential and depth with 11 men playing off the Tribe bench if the first half.

The only thing that could get the Seminole spirit down is the virus attacks which have plagued Dave Cowens, John Burt, Jeff Hogan, and other members of the team this week and did slow their performances against the Rebels.

As usual there were the tainted tongue lashings of the apathetic crowds who think athletes are superhuman and don't have sickness, injury or any other of the troubles that plague this world because All America candidate Cowens, Hogan and the others didn't downpour the boards with baskets as Sellers was slashed when painful bruises slowed his performance. But they're living human beings with vulnerable blood and bones too so give them a break, kids.

Show your spirit and support to the basketball team and they'll repay you in performance one hundred fold. Remember this weekend to travel to Jacksonville or tune in the radio to "Get the Gators", alias "Sack it to 'em, Seminoles!"

Misner Finishes Among Top In NCAA Championships

FSU's Ken Misner is now officially one of the top cross-country runners in America.

Monday, Nov. 25, Misner ran in the NCAA National Cross-Country
Championships on the Manhattan College campus and put in an outstanding performance. He finished 55th in the nation on the grueling 6 mile course.

Jarvis Regains Army's Faith

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The memory of that costly fumble will always be in Charlie Jarvis' mind just as the name of Charlie Jarvis will always be a part of Army's football.

Jarvis, whose fumble killed an Army drive in the Cadets' 19-14 loss to Navy in 1968, scored three touchdowns last Saturday in Army's 21-14 victory over the Midshipmen.

For his performance, Jarvis was named Wednesday The Associated Press' Back of the Week.

Asked about the fumble, Jarvis replied:

"I've thought about it for 365 days. That was the most humiliating day of my life. The three touchdowns and an Army victory will ease the pain although it never will erase the memory."

Jarvis, whose third touchdown on a nine-yard run was the winner, gained 88 yards. This gave him 2,334 and broke the three-year Army record of 2,323 piled up in the 1940's by the immortal Glen Davis.

The number 55 may not sound so overwhelming until one looks at the overall meet. The first 25 finishers automatically became All-America and Misner missed that by just 35 seconds in his run of 30:42. He averaged 5.7 minutes per mile and finished high in the field of some 230 finishers. Perhaps the most revealing fact of Misner's ability is that he was the second best finisher from the South-East portion of the country.

Mike Long, the cross-country coach, commented on Misner's run.
"It was a pretty outstanding performance for a sophomore running at that level of competition."

KEN MISNER

... is ranked No. 55 among the country's top cross-country runners.

As An Infield Coach in Minors

Baseball Coach Hatfield to Work for Cards

By RON SCOOGINS
FLAMBEAU Sports Editor

Most Seminole fans have their attention focused on the Tribe's Peach Bowl bound football team and the Tribe's outstanding cage squad. However, they should also pay tribute to FSU's outstanding baseball coach, Fred Hatfield. Hatfield announced Wednesday that he has resigned his position at FSU to work for the St. Louis Cardinals in their minor league program.

The Tribe mentor's successor has yet to be named. Among those under consideration are former major league stars Wally Moon, Jim Davenport, Al Worthington, Wake Forest diamond coach Jack Stallings and Miami baseball coach Ron Fraser.

FSU HISTORY

Hatfield has been baseball coach at Florida State for the last five years. Those years have been the most successful years for the Seminoles on the diamond.

Practically all FSU baseball records were broken during that time including such records as most number of victories in a season (35), longest longest home run (over 500 by Jim Guzikowski) and best pitching record (Steve Mason's perfect season last year).

In addition the Tribesmen have gone to the NCAA Regional tournament in Gastonia, North Carolina in four of the last five years and made it to the National Collegiate World Series once. The Seminoles were also named the number one team in the nation for almost two months last season.

CARDINAL JOB

Hatfield will be in charge of minor-league infield coaching in the Cardinals' farm system. Most of his work will be with the Little Rock and Tulsa farm teams.

Leaving in February for St. Petersburg, Hatfield will be with the Cardinals' major league franchise for spring training where he will coach in the infield with rookie players.

After spring training, Hatfield will work at the Cardinals' Central Training Camp in St. Petersburg with those first-year players reporting to the minor league program.

Hatfield couldn't divulge his salary but did say that it was a "$2,000-2,500" raise over his salary as head coach at Florida State.

When asked why he was leaving college ball to return to the pros, Hatfield said, "I feel I'm still young enough yet to start moving up in the professional ranks of coaching. It also seems to be the best time to get back into pro ball with the recent Hatfield also said, "We could use more scholarship money, though. Right now, the Athletic Dept. only gives out a very few full baseball scholarships."

"We've also got many major league scouts giving us tips. Anyone they can't or don't want to sign out of high school, they let us know about. This has been of tremendous help."

Speaking on student support, Hatfield said that the Student Government had always given its full support of the baseball program and that student support in general at ball games had been of great help and was always greatly appreciated.

BEST YEARS

In summing up his years at Florida State, Hatfield said, "These have been the most pleasant five years of my life. Tallahassee and its citizens have been great baseball supporters and fans."

"Athletic Director Vaughn Mancha has always given me the greatest co-operation and support while student support has been everything a coach could ask for. I'll miss Tallahassee and FSU very much."

expansion of the major leagues."

"Of course, my ultimate goal would be a major league manager's post. That's what every coach would like to do. My years at FSU have taught me how to teach, you might say, and have been of real benefit," Hatfield said.

Hatfield also said, "If after three or four years I haven't made the majors, I think I might go back to college baseball."

SEMINOLE BASEBALL

Commenting on the success of the Seminole baseball program, Hatfield said, "FSU has built one of the nation's best reputations for baseball over the years. It's the one sport we're automatically associated with by many sports people."

"We've also got one of the best baseball fields in the country," Hatfield said, "and it's also one of only two college-owned lighted fields in the country."

Always on the move, Coach Hatfield goes through one of his typical mound conferences last season.

Princeton's Paper Turns Cupid

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The editors of Princeton University's intellectually oriented student newspaper turned Cupid Thursday.

They published a slim volume for prurient suitors containing brief biographies and snapshots of 1,500 coeds at eight exclusive women's colleges.

The book, entitled "Who the Girls Are" and priced at $2 a copy, is a snarl to their often ridiculed, but avidly read 1965 edition of "Where the Girls Are."

It history repeats itself, "Girls" will be a best seller in college bookstores.

The 112-page manuscript, the editors solemnly explained, not only furnishes valuable data about the girls' beauties and prides—but also intends to abolish the old-fashioned custom of the blind date.

Peter G. Brown, a junior from Erie, Pa., who edited the volume, declared:

"This little book does no less than spell the demise, the defeat, the absolute abolition of that atrocious anachronism, the blind date. In fact, the purpose of 'Who the Girls Are,' is to take the blind out of the blind date."

The new edition also includes capsule descriptions of the eight schools—Bryn Mawr, Goucher, Mount Holyoke, Skidmore, Smith, Sweet Briar, Vassar and Wellesley colleges.

The comments on the schools also referred to the availability and usage of marijuana on the campuses.

WEATHER

BY MICHAEL MOGIL
FLAMBEAU Meteorologist

Winter is making itself felt over much of the northern and eastern States today. A weak low pressure system is expected to develop in the lower Mississippi Valley today and spread light snow through the Central Appalachians by Saturday morning. Tallahassee should remain to the south of this system and, excepting some variable cloudiness on Saturday, remain fair. Nights will continue on the cool side with lows of 30-35. The high today should reach 60 and the mercury should rise to 65 on Saturday.

Dean Lawton Establishes Journalism Program Study

Dean Robert O. Lawton, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, has established a committee to study the proposal for the creation of a journalism program at Florida State.

Dean Lawton's creation of this committee concurs with the opinion of other university officials that FSU is sorely lacking in its journalism program. Acting Vice-President for Student Affairs John Arnold and Vice-President of Academic Affairs E. L. Chalmers have both echoed the need of a journalism program.

NO PAST PROGRAM

Florida State has not had a journalism program in the past due to a Board of Regents policy concerning the number of schools allowed in the state. The BOR policy is that only one school of journalism is allowed in Florida, and that school is currently located at the University of Florida.

The demand for a journalism school at Florida State began with the establishment of a Board of Editors set up at FSU in October. Editors of all student publications and the head of the Board of Student Publications were included on the Editor's Board. The first action was the passing of a resolution putting the board in favor of establishing a journalism program at FSU.

APPROVAL

Since that time President John Champlain has expressed approval of such a program in order to provide quality student publications on a continuing basis.

In a statement yesterday Dean Lawton said that current journalism courses are not adequate and agreed that a journalism program is vital to the continuity of quality student publications.

Lawton stated that the College of Arts and Sciences hopes to have the journalism program implemented by next fall.

"It (the curriculum) might be a minor; it might be a major. The College of Arts and Sciences is working toward strengthening and expanding the role of journalism at Florida State University," stated Dean Lawton.

NEWS DIGEST

VIETNAM

A steady increase in fighting in South Vietnam last week sent American battle deaths to the highest peak in two months with a total of 681 killed, or 27 per cent higher than the 536 who died in November, the U. S. Command reported Thursday.

South Vietnam Thursday ordered its whole negotiating team, including Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, into Paris Sunday to join the four-way Vietnam peace talks expected next week.

NATIONAL

President-elect Richard Nixon conferred Thursday in New York with U. S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman and indicated he will send an observer to the Paris talks to insure continuity in the quest for a settlement of the Vietnam war.

Republican governors told President-elect Richard Nixon Thursday that they want a part in planning the new GOP administration.

If all goes as planned with the Apollo program, earthlings will get a clear view of their planet-television live from just above the moon on Christmas Eve and again on Christmas day.

The Mary Washington College (Virginia) newspaper "The Bullet," has stirred the ire of the local establishment with an issue on Christian radicalism.

In Ft. Lauderdale a small boy given up by his mother after an auto accident left him paralyzed from the neck down has been adopted by the brain surgeon who helped him walk again.

INTERNATIONAL

The United States proposed to the U.N. Thursday establishment of an international network to monitor planned nuclear underground explosions with the aim of improving detection techniques.

Two girls, ages 11 and 13, stood accused Thursday in Newcastle, England, of murdering two little boys "solely for the pleasure and excitement afforded by killing."

BOR Manual Changes Effective January 7

The new student policies adopted as changes in the Board of Regent's (BOR) Operating Manual will go into effect on January 7, 1969.

According to BOR Corporate Secretary Hendrix Chandler, it would have been possible to begin operating under new policies at the time they were approved by the Cabinet members making up the state Board of Education.

DELAY

However, a change in BOR policy does not become effective until 45 days after appearing in the Florida Administrative Manual, an official publication of the Secretary of State's office published the twenty-third of every month.

The student policy changes were approved by the BOR on September 27, and approved by the Board of Education on October 15.

QUARTER STUDY

The BOR is also sponsoring a student-faculty-administration study of the quarter calendar. The calendar may also be in for study by a legislative subcommittee.

The group, an appropriations subcommittee studying university operations, is exploring ways of cutting universities' building cost.

They urge the greater use of classroom facilities during the summer and have recommended studying the quarter calendar.

Term Loans

Applications for short term money loans up to $300 for paying Quarter II tuition, books, Morrison's Food Plan, etc., should be filed immediately in the Office of Financial Aid, 637 West Jefferson, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. if the student wishes to have a loan ready by January 2 registration.

P.E. Passes Pass-fail Test

The letter to the Editor charging FSU with archaic P.E. standards (Flambeau, November 25) has caused some comment from the Florida State campus.

The letter stated that several of the beginning P.E. courses were graded unfairly and offered as a possible solution the pass-fail system for P.E. credits for graduation requirements.

One reaction was from Dr. Francis Millett, chairman of the Faculty Senate. According to Millett the Senate passed legislation in September providing for the pass-fail system in P.E. Millett continued by adding the observation that few students are aware of the change in policy.

A spokesman for the Office of the Registrar pointed out the publication of such notice in the fall class schedule under requirements for pass-fail courses.

One student complained that he had registered during the summer and this fact wasn't made known at the time. He attempted to change the grade standard for his present P.E. course from A-B-C to pass-fail last week upon learning about the change in policy.

A spokesman for the Office of the Registrar said the matter was out of the office's control, and changes could be made only during the week of drop and add. The student was informed that the only way to appeal his case was to bring it before the Council of Deans, and even then the outlook was very dim.

Millett said that more students should be made aware of the fact that P.E. courses can be taken on a pass-fail basis. According to the Office of the Registrar, courses taken under the pass-fail basis must be registered as such with a pass-fail form during registration.

Millett also said that the whole P.E. system had been the topic of past senate meetings. Future action concerning the requirements for graduation in the P.E. area is at least a possibility, he added.

Avoid Post-seasonal Shock: Keep Your Housing Contract

As a service to students living off-campus, Robert A. Brandewie, supervisor of off-campus housing, has provided a questionnaire to help students who have trouble with their off-campus housing contracts.

Q. What is post-seasonal shock?

A. Finding out in January or February that your landlord does not release you from your housing contract just because you did not return after the Christmas vacation.

Q. So he sues me? So what have I to lose?

A. Back payments and forward payments too. This is expensive, considering that you would have also contracted and paid landlord number two for the same period.

Q. But I am a minor and can't be held responsible, can I?

A. Why not? Students may be held responsible for payment for their necessities such as food, clothing, and shelter. The court can clear this up for you if you doubt.

Q. I am going to be out of town from December 15 to January 2. Why do I have to pay rent for this period?

A. Because it's in your contract.

Q. I've had it and am not returning for the Winter Quarter. Why can't I refuse to pay the December rent and just let the landlord keep the security deposit?

A. Because the contract says you agreed to pay rent and the security deposit is not money but is held in escrow until the agreed rental period expires.

Q. I have an oral contract, pay rent by the calendar month, and this paid me the creeps. How do I break out?

A. Give your landlord written notice on or before December 15 that you are vacating on or before December 31. You can expect to lose your security deposit.

Q. Will this work under a written contract?

A. Not unless the contract permits. Read it carefully, including the fine print.

Hansel And Gretel: A Fine Performance

By RON POLLARD
Special Writer

"Hansel and Gretel," the season's first production of the Florida State University Opera Guild, opened Wednesday evening in Wetcott Auditorium in a very fine and distinguished performance. From the beginning notes to the overture to the final chorus, the production was in keeping with the excellent precedent established in recent opera presentations at FSU.

The orchestra, under the direction of John Boda, negotiated the rather difficult score in a professional manner. Special mention should be given to the percussion section for its outstanding work.

Jayne Middleton and Sally Lambert in the title roles, both visually and vocally suited to their parts, presented charming characterizations of the fairy tale brother and sister especially in acts two and three. Thomas Tague and Lucy Dial as the parents, Cathy Alvarez as the Salvation and Linda Gravis as the Dew Fairy, offered outstanding performances in their roles.

The highlight of the third act was the witch portrayed by Susan Lukwicz. She was both cunning and cruel in her actions and not only vocally. Her dance to "Which's Rider" was her delight. The fourteen angle dancers, including "Dream Pantomime," though in space, presented a fine closing for the second act.

Designer Larry Reilly, who executed by Technical Director, David Brodwell, were very visually appealing, especially the forest and garden house of act two, and the castle by Lucy Ho were quite impressive.

Congratulations to the Producer/Director, Richard G. Galt, and the Opera Guild for this outstanding mounting of "Hansel and Gretel," which is absolutely a must for all ages and should be a must see.

Journalists Defend Four-letter Words

By JOHN ZEH
College Press Service

ATLANTA (CPS) — Freedom of the four-letter word and other rights of anonymous journalists were defended last week in a discussion of the student press at the annual conference of Sigma Delta Chi, "national journalism fraternity."

College students are confronted with the paradox of seeking effective answers to enormous new questions while being expected to conduct themselves within the mores and social concepts of traditional society, said Bill Preston, SDX president at the University of Tennessee.

The public should be educated that the changing times have lifted taboos on certain words, Doug Stone, managing editor of the University of Minnesota Daily, said. "When these words become essential as quotes in news stories, they should be used. Anything else would be incomplete reporting."

What a paper writes, he added, should be determined by contemporary standards of students, not of secondary audiences, politicians, or local crusaders.

When a paper stirs controversy over use of such words, or for other reasons, due process should be followed by the publications board after the storm has died, Stone argued. "We have seen all too frequently this fall the hostility and turnout caused by intemperate and unilateral action by a college president, board of regents, or state legislature with an axe to grind."

There should be "no meddling" in the student press by outside forces, Stone said. "The first, most important thing an administrator owes college editors is to leave us alone." He also said student papers ought not to be "PR sheets" nor spokesmen for the university, and that access to administrators and the faculty should be easier and more complete.

John Durbin, a senior at Southern Illinois University, suggested that student papers cover news of the surrounding city, especially those municipal affairs that affect students. Such coverage would also provide learning journalists good experience and could influence city affairs, he added.

Student protesters confront editors with a serious problem of news judgment, according to Frank Malouff, SDX president at the University of Colorado. Editors should weigh the significance and seriousness of the demonstrators' cause before devoting a lot of space to them, he said.

Malouff also noted the dangers for student papers that get involved in the protest movement themselves.

'Li'l Abner' Begins USO Iceland Tour

Thirteen students and one faculty member will leave Monday from the Tallahassee airport to conduct a USO tour in Greenland, Iceland, Newfoundland and the British Isles. University President Thomas and Student Body President Foster will see the group off.

The group will present their production of the play, "Li'l Abner" at various points and their families at various installations in these areas. The tour completed a non-USO tour in the southeast.

This is the first group selected from Florida State University to make a USO Tour. The show is co-directed by Peter Sakols and Don Boros. The musical director is Sidney Senn.

The USO Tour is sponsored by the United States Government, the American Educational Theatre Association and the Defense Department.

The Beta Eta Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national honorary radio and television fraternity, raised four thousand dollars in ceremonies Tuesday night.

Those raised included Eugene Salant, senior advertising major from Tallahassee; Laurence DuKate, senior broadcasting major from Panama City; John Lewis, graduate student in speech and John Loggins, doctoral student of mass communications.

Prominent graduates of AERho include Walter Cronkite, Chris Schenkel and Frank Stanton.

Just easier to drive.

You'd never know it to look at it, but that's a Volkswagen without a clutch pedal.

What it does have is something called an automatic stick shift. "Automatic" because you can drive it up to 55 mph without shifting at all. "Stick shift" because you shift it when you go over 55.

And that's just to help you save gas. (In keeping with a grand old Volkswagen tradition.)

As a matter of fact, this VW still gives you 25 miles to the gallon. It still takes only an occasional can of oil. And it still won't go near water or antifreeze.

If it were anything but a Volkswagen, you'd probably pay dearly for all this luxury.

Instead, a Volkswagen with an automatic stick shift costs a mere $1954.

All of which reinforces what we've been saying for 20 years. Looks aren't everything.

OPINION

The problems which beset student residents at W.T. Cash Hall deserve immediate consideration so that similar problems may be avoided in the future.

Recently, the chief resident counselors handed in their resignations as a result of a dispute between them and housing officials over the roll of resident counselors in handling student matters.

The issue here is whether counselors are to be supervisory officials acting as administrators who control the students' affairs, or whether they are to be student-oriented, acting in an advisory role.

Actually, this dispute served only to bring strained emotions to the boiling point. Since the start of the Fall Quarter, Cash Hall has been the scene of much discontent.

Resident students who contracted for living quarters arrived on campus only to find a building still under construction and ill-equipped to provide adequate habitable housing facilities.

In short, the students did not get what they bargained for.

The former head resident counselor, James Tait, said students are seeking rebates as a result of the inconveniences and are attempting to hire legal counsel.

There is no doubt that problems such as this must be avoided at all costs. Although Cash Hall is not considered part of university housing, there is a tendency for university and university-related building construction and repairs to fall behind target completion dates, much to the chagrin of the students.

Perhaps if those responsible for creating these delays and resulting hardships felt the financial bite of rebates granted by the courts, they would be more inclined to list more reasonable completion dates or expedite their rate of progress in construction.

Problems such as those besetting the students of Cash Hall should simply not arise again. There is no excuse for unreasonably overburdening students who are willing to pay their rental fees in full by providing them with relatively unreasonable living conditions.

With this edition, the Flambeau concludes publication for the Fall Quarter. To say that the first term was a hectic one would be an understatement.

But it was an enjoyable experience.

The staff has worked diligently in a concerted effort to give this university community a daily newspaper of which it can be proud.

In striving toward this end, the Flambeau has published news articles and views with which many students vehemently disagree, but such is the purpose of a student newspaper.

The fact that you were agreeing or disagreeing with your newspaper — that you actually took the time to weigh the competency of your primary news medium — served to accomplish the goal of the Flambeau's staff.

We will resume publication on a daily basis January 6. At this time, I speak for my staff in wishing each of you a happy holiday season, and may next year be a brighter one for all of you.

See you next quarter!

SPEAK OUT

DEFINITIONS

The recent controversy in the FLAMBEAU regarding articles by Terry Lane Miller, "James Arthur George Craig," et al., suggests an issue heretofore ignored. More specifically, the terms "conservative" and "liberal" are being employed in a manner which renders them totally distorted.

To be sure, this shortcoming is quite widespread, extending to most political communications among non-intellectuals, but it seems that on a university level popular mistakes in terminology would not be so prevalent.

After all, what do the two labels really designate? A conservative is a blind traditionalist, one who fears change with any degree of rapidity. Slow evolution, never (violent or nonviolent) revolution, no matter how vindicated by reason, is the basic dogma of conservatism.

It found its classical expression in Edmund Burke's "Reflections on the Revolution in France," which is still supported by the true conservatives of today, such as James Burnham, Wm Buckley, etc.

"Liberalism" is the philosophy which seeks to unshackle the chains of the past by acting according to the dictates of reason, essentials were expounded by John Stuart Mill, Herbert Spencer, et al. and today its followers include everyone from Ludwig Von Mises and F.A. Hayek to Ayn Rand.

Over the years the term "liberal" has been perverted, the totalitarians, since they needed badly a respectable name to conceal the true nature of their scheme of slavery, claiming it as their sole possession.

Though they have been successful in imposing this lie upon the unthinking masses, it does not seem possible that college students would actually succumb to such popular fallacies, since even the Merriam-Webster Dictionary (for example) asserts the definitions I presented above, it would seem plausible that anyone with just a little education would be aware of the true meanings.

Anyway, for the benefit of those who have been fooled, it must be demanded that the New Deal authoritarians refrain from tabbing their proposals for governmental regimentation "liberal," that they quit slinging the term "conservative" at the true liberals, and that they acknowledge the fact that they are the real conservative reactionaries since they reject freedom and seek to inflict upon their pawns total compulsion, thereby reverting us to the cave man days when the law of the jungle (might makes right) was the system.

CHRISTMAS CHEER

To the Editor

What's this? Is the spirit of Christmas being forced upon our secular university community? I refer not so much to the religious "art" defacing the windows of the University Union, as to the loudspeakers on Landis Green All day Wednesday these obnoxious instruments reverberated with the sounds of Christmas carols.

The cacophony penetrated in to the bowels of Montgomery Gymnasium where it shattered my concentration as I pored over a French text; and it rattled the windows in Strozier Library where I sought to augment my knowledge prior to finals week (yes, there ARE those to whom finals mean more than Christmas).

And lastly, as a non-practicing agnostic, I find this to be an infringement upon my right to a secular public education.

We have two whole weeks after finals to get into the spirit of Christmas — those of us who so desire. In the meantime, give us not "Silent Night," but silent days.

CHEERS SUPPORT

To the Editor

After reading Nancy Cushman's letter in Wednesday's Flambeau, I found myself compelled to speak in defense of the cheerleaders and the Marching Chiefs. We of the Chiefs, I diligently to contribute to and uphold school spirit at Florida State's football games. We try to make a positive contribution through our musical efforts, our cheers, and the cheerleaders' cheers. These cheers, the "whom" I'm up with a head, cheer in particular, were written to promote the spirit of our team and the student body.

Miss Cushman terms these cheers "unbecomingly and juvenile for a university's purpose" and suggests that "something should be done to improve" the cheers. Since the best of our efforts seem inadequate, I would suggest that, if Miss Cushman thinks she could write some better cheers, she should come forth and expound her ideas. I would also suggest that if she does not have a positive idea or contribution she should remain silent.

VIEWPOINT

By SAM MILLER
Associate Editor

Here are some odds without ends about my first quarter here at FSU.

Well, I almost made one umbrella last me the entire quarter. I really was getting the mileage out of it until somebody stole it the other night. I think I'll write a column after the holidays on the booty traps I'm planning for my next umbrella. I wrote a check for my housing fee and it bounced. I had misfigured my account and had overdrawn by $2.04. My bank doesn't trust anybody, so they returned the check.

When I went to the Cashier's Office to make the check good, I was told that it hadn't legally bounced yet. It seems that my bank was quick to notify me of my minor crime than the university.

In about a week, I received notification that my check had now officially bounced and that I could now officially pay my housing fee — in cash.

In a story I did on my first FSU Homecoming, I said the weekend was wild and action packed. I was politely informed by a fellow Flambeau staffer that no FSU Homecoming has ever been wild and action packed.

Well, I almost made three of the university linen service's towels last the entire quarter. I really was getting the mileage out of them until somebody stole one of them the other night. I think I'll write a column after the holidays on the booty traps I'm planning for my next towels.

I guess the biggest surprise about the quarter was that I survived it. How does that proverbial understatement go? "It's a lot harder than the semester system?"

Revised Final Exam Schedule

Examination periods are for two hours each with 30 minutes between examinations. Except for "Group Examinations," examinations will be held in the classroom where the sections of the courses normally meet. Exams for courses having laboratory and/or discussion periods will be held according to the time of the lecture meetings rather than the time of laboratory or discussion meetings.

Courses meeting everyday at the same hour, or for more than one time period will hold examinations according to the time and day of the first scheduled class meeting of the week. For example, a class meeting T 5, Th 5, 6 will hold its examination at the time scheduled for the TTH 5 classes.

Makeup examinations must be approved by the appropriate academic dean and arrangements for rescheduling examinations will be made with the instructors involved. Makeup examinations will be made with the instructors involved. Makeup examinations are permitted because of illness, conflicting examinations, more than three examinations in a 24-hour period, or for certain emergencies.

Where conflicts occur, group examinations take precedence over examinations scheduled by class meeting time. In case of conflicts which cannot otherwise be resolved, a course listed first in the schedule takes precedence over a course listed later.

It is university policy that final examinations in all undergraduate courses are discretionary within any given department. All students enrolled in an undergraduate course having a final examination, including graduating seniors and graduate students, are required to take the examination. It is also university policy that no examinations in lieu of a final examination may be given in an undergraduate course during the final week of classes in any quarter. Exceptions to this policy must have the approval of the appropriate academic dean.

Grades are due in the office of the registrar no later than 9 a.m. on Monday, Dec. 16.

All required physical education courses can be offered on a "pass/fail" basis according to Dr. Francis Millett, Chairman of the Faculty Senate.

$6.5 Thousand for Tape ?

By ROY WERNER

Feature Editor

Have you ever wondered what you could do with 3,595 feet of adhesive tape?

FSU trainer Don Fauls and his staff use that much tape every football game to prepare the squad. The total yearly cost runs about $6,500 for all sports, according to Fauls.

Our primary job is taking care of the injuries of the entire athletic program. We try to prevent as many injuries as we can...I personally feel the more prevention we have, the better job we're doing," said Fauls.

Fauls often wonders about common athletic injuries. According to Fauls, the most feared injury is the one most common to football, a knee injury. He says ankle injuries are very common, occurring mostly in track, basketball and baseball. An ankle injury is "fairly normal" since the act of "turning" is so involved with sports.

What are the requirements for becoming an athletic trainer? Fauls said the National Athletic Trainers Association (NATA) puts emphasis on a college degree, if possible in the area of physical therapy. However, he points out that a physical education major, or a pre-med student with practical experience could also become a good trainer.

Regardless of the degree or lack of it, a strong background in anatomy and physiology is needed. Most importantly, "There is no substitute for practical experience," said Fauls.

Some of the machinery used at Florida State to help heal injuries include the whirlpool bath, infrared heat lamps, and two deep heating devices, the diathermy and ultrasound.

The newest mode of treatment is called "Cryo-Kinetics," said Fauls. In this the trainer "freezes the injured area to numbness," moves the injured area. "As long as there are no fractures or broken bones, this method can be used. Using an ankle injury for an example, Fauls said, "There are three stages (when freezing), warmth and then numbness." It is at the numbness stage that the athlete is encouraged to walk, jog and exercise the injured area. Once pain returns, the movement is stopped.

Fauls said, "Lifting weights to help specific areas of weakness also make an athlete less susceptible to injury." Assisting Fauls in caring for the athletic program injuries is one fulltime assistant trainer, Bill Zeigler. "Zeigler is doing an outstanding job," said Fauls of the FSU graduate. Six student assistants also help treat the various athletes. Fauls said of the assistants, "Without them, our program couldn't function."

FSU Coeds From Orlando Area Needed For Party Hostesses

Coeds from the Orlando area, want to add some excitement to your holiday season and meet some interesting men?

AIESEC, an international organization of business and economics students, is having its annual convention in Orlando December 26-31 and needs coeds to help serve as hostesses at several parties during the week.

Specifically, there are major parties planned for Friday night Dec.

27 and Monday night Dec. 30, both at 9 p.m. at the Robert Meyer Motor Hotel in downtown Orlando. Coeds are invited to attend either one or both events.

Women attending will be greeted by members of AIESEC on arrival at the Robert Meyer, or for further information contact Ellen Knapp at 222-1351.

Since AIESEC is a predominantly male organization we would like women to come and add some charm to the parties which will feature live bands, Miss Knapp said.

Delegates to the conference will be coming from 49 states and 80 university chapters across the country and it should prove an interesting time for all who attend.

Although this is the first restricted grant from the foundation, the foundation already is providing two scholarships of $500 a year in the school of business, Dr. Jack T. Dobson, chairman of the Management Department of the school said.

The School of Business this week announced recipients of these scholarships for the current academic year at Cecilia La Favour, a junior from Meridian, Miss., majoring in advertising and public relations, and John W. Gethem Jr. of Miami, a junior majoring in management.

Florida State University's new College of Law will graduate its first students later this month. Members of the initial class are James Barclay, Robert Bickel, Basil Diamond, John Frost and J. Marshall Gifford. Also graduating are Larry Groover, Donald Haddock, Howard Horowitz, James Jorgenson, and Theo Marry. Other graduates are John Miller, James Reiley, Terrence Russell, Lew Schriener, and John Southwood. Other graduates include John Sorbail, Henry Taylor, James Travis, Charles Trillock, and Jon Wheeler.

Ron Sellers Makes AP First Team All-America

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "A shining flash at the moment of truth!"

The writer was paying tribute to Chris Gilbert, Texas' whirlwind tailback a few weeks ago. But the description also fits O.J. Simpson and Leroy Keyes' running mates in the Associated Press' All-America backfield, to a T.

Simpson, Southern California's magnificent ground-gainer; Keyes, Purdue's premier runner-receiver-defender, and Gilbert, the only collegian in history to ramble for more than 1,000 yards in three consecutive seasons, were among 22 1968 standouts named to the All-America Team Thursday.

Terry Hanratty, Notre Dame's brilliant quarterback, joined the three stellar running backs in the first team backfield.

Completing the first team offensive unit were split end Ron Sellers of Florida State, tight end Ted Kwalick of Penn State, tackle Dave Foley of Ohio State and Mike Montier of Colorado, guards in James Rosenfield of Tennessee and Jim Barnes of Arkansas and center John Didion of Oregon State.

Ends of Ted Hendricks of Miami, Florida, and Doug Zeigler of Kansas, tackle Bill Stanfill of Georgia and Joe Green of North Texas State and middle guard Ed White of California make up a formidable defensive front five.

The linebackers are Steve Kner of Tennessee, Dennis O'Neil of Penn State and Mike Widger of Virginia Tech. Georgia's Jack Scott, Missouri's Roger Wehrli and Washington's Al Worley man the defensive secondary posts.

Sellers, Simpson, Keyes and Hendricks are repeaters for the 1967 All-America first team. Scott and the three linebackers are the only juniors on the squad. The rest are seniors likely to be snapped up quickly in the forthcoming professional draft.

The mere mention of Heisman trophy winner Simpson's name begs comparisons with great college backs of past years, including Jimmy Brown and Gale Sayers.

Ashe, Graebner Cup Doubtfuls

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States' two 100 Davis Cup players, Arthur Ashe and Clark Grubbs, are sidelined by ailments Wednesday, dimming bright prospects for an American triumph over Australia in the Cup finals Dec. 12-13.

Ashe and Graebner were scratched from a scheduled benefit tourney at Northwestern University Wednesday night. Don Dell, Davis Cup captain, said he might have to consider replacements for the Cup challenge held at Adelaide, Australia.

Ashe, the world's top amateur, has a painful right elbow which bothered him since the Cup finals against Australia.

Graebner has recurrence of a left back muscle and, like Ashe, received treatment Tuesday from Dr. Fred Fox, team physician for the Chicago Bears football team.

Smith Stakes Life

By GEORGE W. HACKETT
Associated Press Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — State Senator Kenneth W. Smith reaffirmed his confidence Wednesday in the tests which ultimately decided Daner's image of his winnings in the Kentucky Derby.

"I am 100 per cent sure of my results," Smith asserted to the Kentucky Racing Commission.

"I will stake my life on them." To back up his words, Smith presented a series of film slides showing the evidence he obtained from one of the crystal tests performed on Daner's urine in comparison with a number of experiments he made after the May 4 race.

The procedure brought strong objections from counsel for Peter Miller, owner of the colt. His attorney argued that the issue is not what Smith has learned since the race, but what he knew about phenylbutane and how to detect it at the time of the Derby.

Baseball Players to Strike If Clubs Continue Pressure

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A threatened strike by major league baseball players brewed to potentially dangerous proportions Wednesday when the Players Association reaffirmed in a hotly worded statement that the majors' 960 players had been asked not to sign their 1989 contracts.

The statement, read to the press by Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, charged that players had been subjected to various pressures in an attempt to get them to sign their contracts.

The major issue in the dispute between the players and the owners' centers around the play, demands for increased pension benefits, based on a rise in baseball's new television contract from $36 million to just under $50 million.

The statement said in part: "Some of the clubs, but not all, have engaged in a program of pressuring players in an attempt to have them sign contracts. Young players have been told to sign now or play in the minor leagues next year."

"Others, who are close to vesting under the pension plan, have been told that they will never get the necessary five years of service unless they sign. Veterans have been told that baseball has a long memory and that if they refuse to sign now, they should forget about staying in baseball after their playing careers have ended."

The players have been trying to use their contracts as the major weapon in the dispute saying they would not sign until the issue was resolved.

It has become an urgent matter as the old pension agreement runs out March 31, just prior to the opening of the 1989 season, and raising the specter of a player strike if the issue is not settled by then.

Miller, however, held out hope that the issue could be resolved.

"There is ample time to resolve this," he said. "It is our hope that we can resolve this as soon as possible. But we don't even know how far apart we are because they won't discuss any of the radio and television revenue."

Miller said eight meetings had been held in an attempt to resolve the problem and that a ninth was scheduled for New York next Tuesday.

"The club owners' negotiating representatives have been engaging in delaying tactics," the statement said. "They refused to begin benefit planned negotiations until late October and, to date, have refused to make any substantive offer or respond in any meaningful manner to the extensive proposals made by the Association."

Howe Scores 700th Goal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gordie Howe, the Babe Ruth of Hockey, scored his 700th goal Wednesday night, creating one of the greatest milestones in sports.

The 40-year-old right wing for the Detroit Red Wings drove a 30-foot shot head-on past Pittsburgh Penguins goalie Les Binkley at 7:13 of the first period. It got no more than two inches off the ice and made the score 1-1.

Officials stopped the game and gave Howe the puck as the crowd at the Civic Arena stood and applauded.

The goal put Howe 156 ahead of his nearest rival, Maurice Richards of the Montreal Canadiens, who retired in 1960. It was believed then that Richards' 544 goals might stand for decades.

Only Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks, who is 29 and has 430 goals, seems to have a chance to catch Howe.

Hockey players have longer careers than most athletes, but few play past 40. And no one has played as long and as well as Howe.

Now in his 23rd season, he has made 30 NFL records and has been in the top five scorers for 19 straight years.

The Christmas season is finally upon us and with it the Christmas holidays. At this time of year, most college students get to go home to enjoy a nice Christmas break.

Not so with many Seminole athletes. The basketball team has several important games over the holidays including home stands against Southern Cal, Ohio State and New Hampshire with away games at Virginia Tech and Louisville.

Because of this schedule, none of the varsity players will have a chance to go home for Christmas. For the two seniors on the squad, this will be the third year in a row that they've missed Christmas at home.

I realize that Southern Cal, Ohio State and Louisville are all top 20 basketball teams and that the opportunity to play such top-ranked teams should not be missed. To beat even one or two teams like these would enhance the Tribe's chances of breaking into the top 20 greatly.

But the players should be given some kind of Christmas break, even if it's only for a couple of days at Christmas. Even though the football team has a bowl game to play only five days after Christmas, the players get several days off for the holiday.

I hope that, in the future, a way can be found to schedule basketball games such that the team at least gets Christmas at home. This also involves the rest of the student body because I'm sure that many students would want to see our team play these top-ranked squads but can't because they'll be home for the holidays.

PEACHES

Even though the football players get time off for Christmas, they'll be working pretty hard to prepare for an always tough LSU team.

Remember the Tigers? They're the team that went 6-3-1 last year and got a Sugar Bowl invite to play against 10-0 Wyoming. Do you also remember what the Bayou Tigers did to the Cowboys? They beat them 20-13 in a real New Year's thriller.

They're a rough team but so are our Seminoles. I'm sure that if the Tribesmen play December 30 the way they did last Friday night against Houston, they could take on any team in the nation and I mean ANY. So, good luck in the Peach Bowl and Merry Christmas!

Garnet - Gold Track Meet Set Saturday Morning

By ROB WEISS

FLAMBEAU Sports Writer

Saturday morning on the FSU track is the running of the eighth annual Garnet and Gold track meet.

The event is divided as evenly as possible into a close, competitive running and is sure to produce some outstanding prospects for the approaching track season.

The team, under the coaching of Mike Long, has been practicing since the summer and seem anxious to begin real competition.

Long is a veteran coach presently in his 31st year of coaching, 14 as FSU's head track coach. During his years as the Seminole chief, he has brought Tribe teams into prominence and developed several nationally known performers. Among them are Mike Kelly, one of the best hurdlers in the country, and Ken Misner, a distance and outstanding cross-country runner.

Both Kelly and Misner return from last year's usual stronger and more experienced. They should certainly help the 1985 team excel.

The Garnet and Gold meet will be a good preview of the new team for fans and coaches alike. For the coaches it will be an opportunity to find the starting men in each event or as Long puts it, "to find who your people are going to be."

Some names to watch for in the meet will be Demson Jasper and Guy's short sprints; Steve Lewis in the 400 yard run; and Thomas and Misner in the 1500 and 2000 yards, respectively.

and an interesting meeting in the high hurdles between Kelly and promising freshman Rodger Peterson.

Tribe Begins String of Contests

By SHEILA SHOW

Assistant Sports Editor

As the holidays approach with fun and relaxation in store for Seminole students, the basketball team will more than have their hands full. Beginning this weekend with the Jacksonville Civic Center Classic, a series of contests are scheduled with Virginia Tech, Louisville, Southern Cal, Ohio State and New Hampshire.

Tonight the Tribe faces the University of Miami whose starting lineup includes one lone veteran, Don Currutt, who broke all of the sophomore scoring records last season. Making their season debuts for the Hurricanes will be JC transfer Wayne Canady, 6-6, Ron Welch, 6-7, and Willie Allen, 6-6.

Currutt averaged 22.7 points per game as a sophomore, the third highest for one season at Miami as he has 635 points and 268 field goals.

If successful in defeating Miami, Florida State will play the winner of the Florida Jacksonville contest. The Gator team is built around last season's second team All-America center Neal Walk who led the nation in rebounding with 494 for an average 19.8 per game and placed 10th in scoring with a 26.5 average. Also in the lineup are last year's second leading scorer and rebounder, Andy Owens, and senior guard Mike Leatherwood.

With a rebuilding year in 1987-88, Jacksonville finished 113-13 but lost only one starter. Rod McIntyre, 6-8 is the key man and much is expected of junior college sensation Rod Morgan.

December 14 the Tribe travels to Blacksburg, Va. to face Virginia Tech, then over to Kentucky to play last year's NIT winner Louisville rated in this year's polls December 16.

Home once again, December 17 sees the Seminoles playing Southern Cal for the first time in 1985.

Seminoles Meet Tigers For Peach Bowl Crown

By RON SCOGGINS
FLAMBEAU Sports Editor

On their third bowl trip in as many years and fourth in five years, the Seminole football team will face the Bengal Tigers of Louisiana State University December 30 at 8 p.m. in Atlanta's Peach Bowl, the latest bowl entry.

At season's end the Seminoles have won eight and lost two while the Tigers won seven and lost three.

Florida State went through one of their best seasons ever with victories over Maryland, Texas A&M, Memphis St., South Carolina, Mississippi St., North Carolina St., Wake Forest and their first win ever over top-ranked Texas. The Seminoles' losses were a 13 heart breaker to Florida and a 40-0 drubbing to Virginia Tech.

Finishing off a 7-3 record, the Bayou Tigers beat Texas A&M 13-12, Rice 17-7, Baylor 48-16, Kentucky 21-10, Tulane 10-7, Mississippi St. 28-0, and Tulane 34-10. LSU's losses were at Miami 30-0, Ole Miss 27-24 and Alabama 16-7.

The game will feature All-America players, two starters and Honorable Mention All-America quarterback Cliff Stokely. Running from the backfield to offense, the Tigersman has many individual and team records during the '68 season. Coach Bill Platero has termed Stokely's talent as the "best I've ever coached at LSU."

Playing a role from behind team captain, Gary, is a traditional center, John Blasing from the Division I. The Tigers have racked up 790 points while holding their opponents to 144. LSU ended the season with a win in the tough Cotton Bowl Conference, just about LSU has been named as the home team at the Peach Bowl because, though the Seminoles accepted the bid first, the Tigers were extended the invitation to play before FSU was.

Thus, the Tigers will choose what uniforms will be worn.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — O.J. Simpson, in New York City to receive the Heisman Trophy, became a father Wednesday when his wife Marguerite gave birth to a 7-pound, 12 ounce girl at Good Samaritan Hospital. Simpson is to receive the trophy Thursday.

No name has been decided for the child, a family spokesman said.

Simpson, University of Southern California running back, will be given the trophy annually awarded the nation's best college player on Thursday.

NEW YORK (AP) — The new deal in San Francisco seems to have done wonders for John Brodie whose 12th season in pro football ranks with his better years.

When Dick Nolan, the new head coach, took the 49ers to their new training camp last July, the No. 1 quarterback job was declared a wide open fight between Brodie and George Mira with Steve Spurrier also a contender.

Brodie beat off the challenge of Mira and resumed his familiar starting job by opening day. At the end of games Brodie ranks fourth among
